It will be observed that this instruction does not purport to compulsorily introduce the continuous discharge certificate system in all cases occurring in the Colonies, but is in the nature of an addition to the instructions contained in the Circular No. 583 enclosed in my despatch above referred to.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient, humble Servant,

J. CHAMBERLAIN.

2. When men desert, or are left behind from sickness or any other cause, the continuous discharge certificates belonging to them should be obtained, properly entered up, from the Master of the vessel. An endorsement should be made on the Agreement showing whether in each case the continuous discharge certificate has been delivered by the Master.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.*GENERAL CIVIL JURISDICTION.

THIS 24TH DAY OF JUNE, 1902.

BURROWES, Plaintiff,
versus
CHASE, Defendant.

In this case the plaintiff claims an order declaring that title to certain lands vests in the colony of British Guiana, that the colony and its duly authorised officers are entitled to the possession thereof and that the defendant do forthwith deliver possession to the plaintiff or some other duly authorized officer of the Government of the colony.

The plaintiff is described in the claim as "Commissionary of Taxation hereto authorised by an Order of the Governor-in-Council dated the 34th January, 1901," and the lands claimed are stated to be a portion of plantation Supply and to be defined as lot 4 on a plan or chart of plantation Helena cum annexis by James A. P. Bowhill, Government Surveyor, dated 27th August, 1900, and to be marked in red thereon and referred to as land occupied without transport.

Two preliminary objections have been taken on behalf of the defendant (1) that the plaintiff has no right to bring the action as the Governor-in-Council had no power to authorise him to do so; and (2) that the property is not described with such certainty as is required by Order I, Rule 12 of the Rules of Court, 1893.

The second of these objections cannot, in our opinion, be sustained. The decisions in Martins v. Peters (Ltd. Jdn., 2nd Nov., 1894) and D. R. Co. Ltd. v. Marques (Ltd. Jdn., 25th Jan., 1896), do not support it, as in those cases the land in dispute was not described as being itself defined on a plan, but only as being part (but which part was not shown) of lands so defined. The description in this case by reference to a plan is as complete as the usual description in actions for the recovery of land in England, by reference to an unrecorded deed which is put in evidence at the hearing; and no greater certainty in the description was necessary. It may be added that it would be impossible to describe land in any case with such certainty as to enable an officer by the written description alone, without the aid of a chart, or plan, or oral information obtained on the spot, to identify, without any risk of mistake, the land intended.

The first objection presents far greater difficulty. "The Colony of British Guiana" in which the property in dispute is stated in the statement of claim to be by transport vested is recognised by the Statute Law of the colony as a legal entity (see c.g. Ordinances 4 of 1876, 11 of 1887, sec. 7, and 10 of 1898, sec. 6), and seems to have been constituted such by Letters Patent dated 4th of March, 1831. If "the Colony of British Guiana" be regarded as a legal entity, it can, like any other artificial person, act only through officers duly appointed; and the question for decision is was the plaintiff an officer duly appointed and clothed with authority to bring this action.

If the action be regarded as one brought by the Crown as guardian of the rights of the inhabitants of the colony by virtue of its prerogative, there can, we think, be no doubt that it should have been brought by the Attorney General, his functions being recognised as generally similar to those of the Attorney General in England (Ord. 50 of 1834) who is virtute officii the legal representative of the Crown in the law courts (R. v. Austen, 9 Price 142). So also if the action be regarded as one brought on behalf of "the Colony" as a legal or artificial person it could, we think, properly have been brought by the Attorney General, who is the general representative of the Colonial Government in the Law Courts, appointed under the public seal of the colony, many precedents existing of proceedings being taken by that officer "for and on behalf of the colony of British Guiana."

No explanation has been given by counsel for the plaintiff why this action was not brought by the Attorney General, nor has any authority been cited justifying the course which has been adopted. There being, as already pointed out, an officer known to the law by whom an action like this can be brought, there is prima facie no necessity for the appointment of a special attorney or representative to bring such actions, and therefore the power of the Governor-in-Council to make such an appointment cannot be presumed but must be shown to exist. Such power is not expressly conferred by any law or legal instrument of which the Court has judicial knowledge, nor has any such instrument been brought to the notice of the Court. Neither the Letters Patent constituting the office of Governor nor those providing for the constitution of an Executive Council give such power, nor indeed would such power be needed, the Crown itself appointing an Attorney General for the colony; and it has not been shown by counsel, nor are we aware that it can be shown, that the power of making such an appointment was an executive or administrative function, which before the year 1891 belonged by law or usage to the Governor and Court of Policy or to the Court of Policy (it having been apparently the function of the Fiscal in the earlier days of the colony to bring actions like the present), and therefore is by the British Guiana Constitution Ordinance, 1891, sec. 30, now vested in the Governor and Executive Council. Section 16 of Ordinance 10 of 1886 which has been cited by counsel does not, in our opinion, support the view that any such power is vested in the Governor-in-Council; on the contrary, the express enactment that the Governor and Court of Policy (now the Governor-in-Council, Ordinance 21 of 1901) should have the power of appointing an officer to perform a mere ministerial act, such as passing or receiving a transport of lands already sold or bought by the colony tends to show that even the power to appoint an officer for that purpose, which is far less than the power of appointing an attorney with power to sue, was not apart from express enactment vested in the Governor and Court of Policy.

The first objection taken on behalf of the defendant is therefore, in our opinion, a valid objection, and the plaintiff not being entitled to maintain the action, it must be dismissed with costs.

DEVONISH, et al, plaintiffs

versus

ROCKLIFFE, in her own right and as executrix of the last will of G. W. ROCKLIFFE, deceased, defendant.

In this action the plaintiffs, as heirs ab intestato of one Francis Rockliffe, deceased, the first wife of G. W. Rockliffe, deceased, claim from his widow, the defendant, both individually, and as executrix of the last will of the said G. W. Rockliffe, an inventory of all the estate and property of the said F. Rockliffe, of which possession was taken by the said G. W. Rockliffe at her death, an account of the dealings and intromissions of the said G. W. Rockliffe and of the defendant with the said estate and property, and payment and delivery of whatever money and property, may on the taking of that account be found, to be payable and deliverable by the defendant to the plaintiff.

The following facts are, we think, established, namely: (1) that the plaintiffs are some (if not all) of the heirs of F. Rockliffe who died intestate; (2) that by antenuptial contract community of property between her and her husband was excluded, the administration of her property being vested in him, he, however, being restrained from alienating or encumbering it without her previous consent in writing; (3) that F. Rockliffe at the time of her death was the owner of lot 57 or 67, Stabroek, of the value of $100, and of jewellery worth about $50; (4) that she was during her lifetime entitled to ten shares in the British Guiana Building Society, Limited, which, having matured, were paid off by the Society, there having been paid to G. W. Rockliffe the sum of $1,000 in respect thereof on the 6th of July, 1898, not two months before F. Rockliffe's death, and the sum of $138 65 in respect of bonus thereon on the 30th of August, 1898, that is, four days after her death; (5) that after the death of F. Rockliffe, the plaintiffs adiated her estate, but never obtained actual possession of any of her property, all that property remaining in the actual possession and under the control of G. W. Rockliffe, by whom all the business relating to the estate of the deceased was managed; (6) that the taxes on lot 57 or 67, Stabroek, not having been paid, that lot was sold at execution sale, G. W. Rockliffe getting a friend to buy it in and after obtaining letters of decree to transport it to the defendant, he (G. W. Rockliffe) paying the purchase money at such sale and all the expenses of the transaction; (7) that the lot mentioned, though purchased at execution sale for the sum of $30 or thereabouts, was valued at $300 in the declaration as to the value of F. Rockliffe's estate which was prepared by G. W. Rockliffe and on which estate duty was paid, and (8) that there was from the time of F. Rockliffe's death up to that of G. W. Rockliffe an understanding between the parties that G. W. Rockliffe would purchase the lot, and after the sale took place he informed the plaintiffs that he would settle with them about it, as soon as he had arranged about some outstanding accounts.

It is not established that any of the property of F. Rockliffe, other than the lot mentioned, has come to the hands or into the possession or under the control of the defendant, nor is it shewn that she was in any way privy to the transaction by means whereof the lot 57 or 67, Stabroek, became vested in her. We think, therefore, that no order should be made against her in her own right. But in our opinion the defendant as executrix of the last will of G. W. Rockliffe must be ordered to render an account of all the dealings and transactions of the said G. W. Rockliffe with or in relation to the property, estate and effects of F. Rockliffe. That account with the one exception about to be mentioned should be limited to the property in his possession from and after the death of the said F. Rockliffe, and should include not only any rents derived from lot 57 or 67, Stabroek, before the sale of it, but also its value, as that lot is shewn by the evidence to have been under the control of the late G. W. Rockliffe and the plaintiffs and the deceased apparently agreed that he might purchase it in the ordinary way for a sum representing its real value. There is not, in our opinion, sufficient evidence to show that any furniture, the property of F. Rockliffe, was in the possession of G. W. Rockliffe after her death, as although from the ante-nuptial contract it appears that F. Rockliffe was possessed of some furniture at the time of her marriage, it is stated by one at least of the witnesses that all the furniture in the house where F. Rockliffe resided was sold some years before her death when she and her husband were about to go to England, and after this lapse of time the sale may fairly be presumed to have been duly authorized. The account will, therefore, not include such furniture. The $1,000 however, which was received by G. W. Rockliffe only a few weeks before F. Rockliffe's death on account of her shares in the British Guiana Building Society, Limited, must, we think, be included as well as the sum received after her death as a bonus on her shares. There is no written document in evidence showing any authorisation or approval by F. Rockliffe of G. W. Rockliffe's disposing of that money, and in the absence of any evidence to the contrary, he must be held to have been bound to account for it to her heirs (Vost Ad. Pand. Bk. xxiv, Tit. §§ 9, 10 & 17: Grotius' Introd. Bk. II, ch. xii, § 15.) In the account the defendant will be entitled to take credit for all sums paid by G. W. Rockliffe which are properly chargeable against the estate of F. Rockliffe.

It was urged by counsel for the defendant that the plaintiffs were not entitled to an order for an account inasmuch as they based their claim on the wrongful possession by G. W. Rockliffe of F. Rockliffe's property after her death whereas the evidence adduced showed that they were themselves in possession, or at any rate that there was no holding of such property by him adversely to them. We are unable to agree with this argument, the plaintiffs having had at most bare legal possession of that property, and the fact that the evidence proves not a wrongful holding by G. W. Rockliffe, but a holding with the consent of the plaintiffs not being such a variance between the plaintiffs' claim and the evidence in support thereof as would disentitle them to the relief claimed. An account must, therefore, be taken of the nature already indicated. The question of costs is reserved till final judgement is to be given, after the account directed has been taken.

LIMITED JURISDICTION.

THIS 24TH DAY OF JUNE, 1902

SANDBACH, PARKER & CO.

M. GONSALVES & CO., LTD.

The affidavit of defence filed in this matter is very vague, it does not, to use the words of Lord Blackburn, "condescend upon particulars." There is nothing to show when the alleged instalments are payable. The affidavit seems to me to be most carefully drawn so as not to commit the parties who have sworn to it. On the face of the affidavit I am not at all sure if the agreement to pay in indefinite instalments was made between the plaintiffs and the defendants or between the plaintiffs and "four other principal merchants." It was decided in Jacobs v Booth's Distillery Company, 85 L.T. 262 that where there is a triable issue, though it may appear the defendant is not likely to succeed, unconditional leave to defend should be granted. I cannot on this affidavit, however, say whether there is a triable issue between the parties. It was stated by counsel for the respondents that an instalment became payable the day the writ was issued and that that instalment has not been paid or tendered. I consider that on the affidavit filed and the statement made by counsel that this is a case where leave should be given to defend on terms. I grant leave to defend on condition the defendants on or before the 27th instant give security for the amount claimed, otherwise there will be judgment.

A. V. LUCIE SMITH, J.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

THIS 28TH DAY OF JUNE, 1902.

JOHNSON, Appellant,

versus

GRAVESANDE, Respondent.

This is an appeal from a decision of Mr. F. A. Gall, Stipendiary Magistrate, Central Demerara Judicial District, ordering the appellant to deliver up possession of a cottage to the respondent within one month from the 14th of April, 1902, and to pay the respondent's costs.

The respondent claims possession of the cottage on the ground that the appellant had been tenant at will to him, and the tenancy had been determined by legal notice to quit. The appellant contests his claim on the ground that he never was tenant at will to the respondent; that the cottage was not the property of the respondent, but of the appellant's illegitimate minor son, whose mother, A. Van Cooten, had purchased it for him for the sum of $90 paid in cash, had paid the village rates thereon from the date of purchase, June, 1897, to November, 1901, and was in undisturbed possession on behalf of her son at the present time, the appellant having no interest therein or tenancy thereof.

In his reasons for his decision the Magistrate, after referring to certain parts of the evidence, states that "there is nothing to show that the cottage was settled on the son, Joseph Johnson, and the defendant (appellant) having acquired the cottage with his own money, there was nothing to prevent him, as father and natural guardian of his minor son, from disposing of the property to the plaintiff (respondent) Gravesande, who holds a receipt for the same," and adds that, in giving his decision, he finds "that defendant (appellant) was the owner of the cottage, and that he sold it to the plaintiff (respondent) Gravesande, who is entitled to possession."

The reasons for appeal (stated shortly) are, (1) that the decision is erroneous in law, (a) as the relation of landlord and tenant was not shown to exist between the respondent and the appellant, and therefore section 17 of Ordinance 4 of 1846 does not apply to the case, (b) as the cottage was shown to be the property, not of the respondent, Gravesande, but of Joseph Johnson, an illegitimate child of the appellant, (c) as the receipt put in by Gravesande showed a sale by the appellant for the minor Joseph Johnson, and the appellant was not shown to have any authority to act for the minor; (d) as Gravesande, who purchased the cottage as the property of the minor, was estopped from saying it was not his property; (e) as the finding of the Court that the appellant, as father and natural guardian of the minor, could dispose of the cottage, is incorrect in law, as he was not the natural guardian of the minor; (f) as reasonable cause was shown to the Court why an order should not be made against the appellant; and (g) as there was no proof of the end or determination of the alleged tenancy. (2) That the decision is altogether unwarranted by the evidence.

Even if it be taken as proved that the own rehip of the cottage was legally transferred by the appellant to the respondent, there is no evidence of any agreement between them as to the appellant's occupying the cottage as tenant, and no tenancy would in the absence of an agreement be created merely by the vendor's remaining in possession of the cottage sold. (Tew v. Jones, 13 M. & W. 12). The Magistrate's decision, therefore, cannot be sustained under section 17 of Ordinance 4 of 1846, under which enactment the proceedings are taken. But I may add that there is not any evidence of a delivery of the cottage to the respondent by the appellant, and therefore even if the appellant could legally transfer the cottage, all that has been proved is a contract of sale between the appellant and the respondent, and such contract, according to the common law of this colony, could not, per se, transfer the ownership of the cottage, but would only give the purchaser a right of action on the contract. In view of the reasons above given, it is unnecessary to decide whether, as the appellant was not the natural guardian of his illegitimate son, and as the respondent accepted a receipt from him in that capacity for the purchase money of the cottage, the respondent can now contend that the cottage was the property of the appellant, or whether the evidence is sufficient to support the specific finding of fact by the Magistrate.

The decision of the Magistrate is reversed, and the appeal allowed with costs. The appellant does not, in my opinion, come into Court with such clean hands as to render it proper to allow him the costs also of the hearing in the Court below, and each side will therefore bear its own cost of that hearing.

HENRY A. BOVELL, C.J.

DENNY, Appellant,

versus

BROWN, Respondent.

This is an appeal from a decision of Mr. F. A. Gall, Acting Police Magistrate of Georgetown, convicting the appellant of larceny of a sum of money of which he was the bailee.

The reasons of appeal (stated shortly) are (1) that the decision is altogether unwarranted by the evidence, there being no evidence (a) that the appellant agreed to return or re-deliver to the respondent the identical money he received from the respondent, or (b) of fraudulent conversion; (2) that the decision was erroneous in law, (a) the charge as laid being bad in law and disclosing no offence, (b) the charge after it was amended being bad for duplicity, and (c) the amendment of the charge having been objected to, the magistrate erred in overruling the objection.

It appears from the evidence that a sum of $16 70 was given by the respondent to the appellant to purchase for the respondent a stove of which he had previously ascertained the price and to transport it to the respondent's residence. The appellant did not purchase the stove and on the return of the money being demanded stated he was unable to deliver it.

To constitute the offence of larceny by a bailee it is not necessary to show an agreement or duty to return or redeliver the identical property or money bailed to the owner, the duty may be, as in this case it was, on the facts proved to be, a duty to deliver the identical property to another. The case is in my opinion covered by the decision in R. v Wells (1 F. and F. 109), cited by counsel for the respondent, and there is sufficient evidence to sustain the decision that the appellant fraudulently converted the money, that is, without any colour of right appropriated it to his own use with intent to deprive the owner of it. The first reason for appeal is therefore unavailing.

The magistrate, in my opinion, had power to amend the charge, notwithstanding the objection of the appellant who does not appear to have been prejudiced in his defence by that amendment (Ordinance 12 of 1893, sect. 97 (2)) and the charge as amended cannot be deemed a double one as it does no more than after charging the appellant in general terms with committing larceny, state the several elements of the offence, in the language of section 72 of Ordinance 17 of 1893, and does not charge the appellant with more than one offence.

The magistrate's decision is affirmed and the appeal dismissed with costs.

HENRY A. BOVELL, C. J.

RE OPPOSITION TO FIAT.

Re RECEIVER GENERAL,

versus

W. G. MCCUDDEN.

In this case the Receiver General seeks to recover by parate execution the sum of $1,177 85, as "duty at the rate of $2 15 per proof gallon on 547.54 gallons spirits at proof being 563'32 gallons spirits at proof left over at the close of the distilling period ending 30th September, 1900, in the rum store of Plantation Everton, in the County of Berbice, less 15'48 gallons of spirit at proof allowance for waste."

Counsel for the defendant has urged many reasons why a fiat should not be granted, but in substance the objections raised are reducible to two, namely (1) that the statement signed by the Receiver General as to the number of gallons of spirits at proof on which duty is payable is incorrect or (at any rate) unreliable; and (2) that what was "left over at the close of the distilling period in question was not spirits" within the meaning of the Spirit Ordinance, 1890, but only "refuse or sediment" and as such not liable to duty.

The proceedings in this case are based on sect. 31 (4) of the Spirits Ordinance, 1890. It has been held (Receiver General and Comptroller of Customs v John Brice, 11th May, 1899), that the duty chargeable under that provision is a duty payable on demand and is payable on any excess "of waste or loss or deficiency over that allowed by the scale" referred to therein. The first question therefore to be considered is whether any ground is shown for doubting the correctness or reliability of the Receiver General's statement as to the number of gallons representing the excess of waste, loss or deficiency on which duty is claimed in this case. The statement signed by the Receiver General (as laid down by Sir W. J. Smith, C.J., in Receiver General v. Comacho, 27th November, 1899) is only prima facie evidence and is insufficient basis for a fiat if good grounds are shown for doubting its correctness.

The phrase "distilling period" used in sect. 31 (4) in my opinion means the period during which distilling operations are being carried on, not necessarily quite continuously but with only short intermissions, and the disposal or non-disposal of the rum distilled has nothing to do with the determination of that period.

From the evidence put before the Court it appears (1) that the distilling period in the present case was at an end apparently on the 19th of August, but at any rate on the 5th September, (2) that on that date whatever spirits were "left over" were in the spirit store vats; (3) that on the 5th of October, the Commissary of the District granted permission to clean the vats and redistil or destroy any refuse matter or sediment therein, and on the 6th October, the vats were emptied 155 bulk gallons of spirits of a merchantable quality were drawn off, and the remainder of the contents of the vats was also drawn off into puncheons and tubs; (4) that on the 5th November, the Commissary visited the plantation, and after his visit the contents of the puncheons and tubs at that time (some leakage and evaporation having taken place since they were first filled) were re-distilled 100 bulk gallons of spirits (equal to 146 gallons of spirits at proof strength) being obtained therefrom; (5) that according to the stock book of the distillery there were on the 5th September, 854 bulk gallons of spirits (equal to 2,838'01 gallons of spirits at proof strength) in the spirit store vats; (6) that on 6th November, the Commissary made an entry in the stock book that 699 bulk gallons (i.e. the 854 gallons less the 156 gallons drawn off) were to be written off as sediment, but on the 21st November he struck out this entry and made an entry stating that 300 bulk gallons of sediment were on hand for redistillation, and that there was a shortage of 399 bulk gallons; and (7) that the present claim is for duty on these 399 bulk gallons, taken as being of an average strength of 41° over proof and therefore equal to 563.32 gallons of proof spirits, an allowance for waste on that number of gallons being made for four weeks at the rate of two gallons per cent. for the first week, one-half gallon per cent. for the next two weeks and one quarter gallon per cent. for the fourth week.

The allowance for waste has, in my opinion, been incorrectly computed. Section 31 provides for the proper officer taking stock periodically of the spirits in a distiller's spirit store. If in the case of spirits left over, the officer when taking stock on any occasion finds the quantity of spirits on hand computed at proof strength less than it ought to be having regard to the account last taken he is, in my opinion, (in a case like the present where there has been no authorised delivery from the spirit store since such last account) bound to calculate the allowance for waste on the total quantity on hand when the previous account was taken, and then to ascertain the excess (if any) of waste by deducting the allowance so ascertained, and the number of gallons at proof actually on hand from the total quantity on hand at the previous stock-taking. But in the present case it appears from the evidence, the quantity actually on hand, in the form of 155 bulk gallons of spirits and 300 bulk gallons of sediment, was first deducted from the quantity which, according to the previous stock-taking, ought to have been on hand, and the allowance for waste was calculated on the residue only. Again, it appears from the Commissary's evidence that he tested and ascertained the quantity of spirits on hand on the 5th Sept. (when as already stated the distillery period was at an end), but did not do so again up to the 5th Novr., when he measured and tested the 155 gallons of spirits already mentioned, and computed without test or measurement the quantity of sediment. I think, therefore, that the allowance for waste should have been made for the whole period from the 5th Sept. to the 5th Novr., and not merely for a period of four weeks. For these reasons, and seeing that no measurements or test of the so-called sediment was made on the 5th Novr., I am unable, though there may have been an excess of waste or deficiency, to rely on the accuracy of the figures contained in the Receiver General's statement as proof of the number of gallons representing such excess, and consequently cannot depend on the statement as to the amount owing, and I therefore decline to issue the fiat.

In view of the foregoing, it is unnecessary for me to express any opinion on the second objection taken on behalf of the defendant, or as to the accuracy of the other figures involved in the questions raised.

Judicial Notice.SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.*APPELLATE JURISDICTION*HEARING LIST.

Demerara, this 3rd day of July, 1902.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

THIS 21ST DAY OF JUNE, 1902.

DEMERARA ELECTRIC CO.

The appellant brought a claim against the respondents in the Magistrate's Court in which he alleged that the respondents contracted and agreed with him to supply him with electrical energy; that all conditions were fulfilled, &c., to entitle him to the said supply of electrical energy, and in pursuance of such agreement the respondents supplied him with electrical energy to the 28th February, 1902, and he duly paid the respondents for the supply of such electrical energy; that on the first March, 1902, the respondents wrongfully and unlawfully cut off the supply of electrical energy and he claimed damages for such wrongful act. On the case coming on for hearing it was objected that as the order of the Governor-in-Council granted to the respondents imposes a penalty on them for any default in supplying energy, no action for damages can be brought by any individual injured. The Magistrate upheld this objection, stating he had no jurisdiction and struck off the case. From this decision the appellant now appeals. I have already held that the Magistrate did not decline jurisdiction, but in reality gave a decision by which he held that the appellant had no right of action even if the allegations in his claim were true. The reason of appeal is that the decision of the Magistrate is erroneous in point of law inasmuch as the Magistrate had jurisdiction in the matter and that even if the provisions of the order of the Governor-in-Council took away the right of the said Joseph Alfred Gomes to sue the defendant Company in the way in which he did the order has no force as law inasmuch as the order was not made by competent authority.

There are two questions raised for decision: (1) is section 23 of the Georgetown Electric Lighting order, 1890, which makes the undertakers liable to a penalty for making default in supplying energy, ultra vires; and if it is not (2) can an action be brought against the undertakers for damages for cutting off the supply of electrical energy or does the imposition of a penalty for making default in supplying energy by the order prevent an action from arising.

I am of opinion that the order of the Governor-in-Council is not ultra vires. Section 5 of the Electric Lighting Ordinance, 1890, was repealed by section 3 of Ordinance 18 of 1899 and a new section 5 substituted therefor. Reading the Electric Lighting Ordinance with this substituted section the Governor-in-Council has the power to make an order authorizing any Company to supply electricity, and by section 7 such Company shall be subject to such regulations as may be inserted in any order affecting their undertaking with regard to, amongst other things, the enforcement of the due performance of the duties of the undertakers in relation to the supply of electricity by the imposition of penalties or otherwise. From these two sections I think it is clear that the Legislature conferred on the Governor-in-Council the power to impose penalties on the Company should they make default in supplying electrical energy. Under the repealed section 5 it was necessary that every provisional order should be confirmed by Ordinance; since the repeal of that section such confirmation is no longer necessary.

The other question to be decided, viz.: whether the imposition of a penalty prevents an action arising is one of considerable difficulty. Stated generally the effect of the decisions in Atkinson v Newcastle Water Co. L.J. 46 Ex. 775 and Saunders v Holborn District Board of Works (1895) 1 Q.B. 64 is that where a statutory duty has been imposed on a Corporation or Company and a penalty imposed by the statute for a breach of that duty, the only remedy open to a person who has suffered damage by reason of such breach is that given by the statute which conferred the right and no action arises for damages. In giving judgment in Atkinson v Newcastle Water Co. Lord Cairns, L.C., states "for the present purpose we may reject all that refers to the supply of water by the defendants for reward, for the breach complained of is independent of any payment of money." In the present case the claim is that the respondents agreed to supply the appellant with energy and the appellant paid them, and they wrongfully cut off the supply. I think on this ground alone the case of Atkinson v Newcastle Water Co. does not apply. If the Company agreed for reward, as alleged in this case, to supply electricity and in breach of that agreement cut off the supply, it cannot be said on an action brought for damages for such breach of agreement that the Company had only made default in their statutory duties for which a penalty is imposed, they have also broken their agreement made for value. The principle of the decision in these cases and the other cases referred to in Saunders v Holborn Board of Works turn on the construction of the statutes imposing the duty and the penalty. The statute, or in the present case, the order of the Governor-in-Council must be looked to to see whether it was intended that no action should arise. By the order the respondents are bound to give and to continue to give a supply of energy on being required to do so by the owner or occupier of any premises, situate within fifty yards from any distributing mains subject to certain conditions. One of the conditions is that the respondents may require the person requiring a supply of energy to enter into a written contract to continue to receive and pay for a supply of energy for at least three years. There are also certain sections relating to the price to be charged, and by section 26 the respondents may make any agreement with a consumer as to the price to be charged for energy, &c. It is clear, therefore, that the order contemplates contracts or agreements being made between the respondents and consumers. If the contract is good as regards the respondents, and they can sue on it, it must be also considered good as regards the consumer and he can sue on it: there must be mutuality. I do not consider it could have been the intention of the order by the imposition of a penalty to prevent the consumer suing for a breach of agreement, when the order authorises and provides for the entering into of such agreements.

Section 23 of the order imposes a penalty on the respondents if they make default in supplying energy to any owner or occupier of premises, but there is no provision that any portion of that penalty shall go to the person injured, as is provided in the English Act under which Atkinson v. Newcastle Water Co. was decided. The fact that it is provided that a portion of the penalty should go to the person injured shows most strongly that it was the intention of the Act that no action should be brought for damages. This was one of the principle reasons for the decision of Lord Cairns. He says: "It appears to me it would be impossible to split up the section and to hold that where the penalty is to go into the pocket of an individual there is no right of action, but where it is not so an action will lie." I think the scheme of the act must be judged of by the 42nd and 43rd sections taken as a whole; and when you find in the majority of cases that there is a kind of penalty affixed which, it is admitted, would prevent an action for damages, it is an irresistible conclusion that in the remaining case the same consequence follows, and that the public penalty as well as the penalty payable to the individual aggrieved prevents a right of action arising." In the order of the Governor-in-Council there is only a public penalty imposed; there is no penalty payable to a person aggrieved, and therefore there is nothing to show that it was intended to take away any right of action any person injured might have. If such was the intention the English form would have been followed, and the penalty made payable to the individual aggrieved.

The case of Whitney v. East London Water Works Co., 1 Cab & E. 331, was brought long after Atkinson v. Newcastle Water Co. It was an action to recover damages against the defendant Company for having cut off the supply of water from the plaintiff's premises. There was no suggestion or argument that such an action would not lie.

The case of Saunders v. Holborn District Board of works, is to my mind, clearly distinguishable from the present case. In that case the plaintiff sued to recover damages for injuries sustained by reason of a fall caused, as it was alleged, by the neglect of the defendants to remove snow from one of the streets in their district, in breach of the statutory duty imposed on them by the Public Health Act. The decisions of Matthew and Charles, J.J., turned on the construction of the Act, and they held that the Legislature did not intend to impose liability to an action for non-feasance but only the liability to a penalty. Before the Act the public had no right of action in such a case. Mathew, J., says "Why should it be 'supposed that the statute creates a new obligation.'" In the present case the duty, if it may be so called, of the respondents to supply energy, is not of the public nature as that imposed on the Holborn Board of Works, and the action is not for non-feasance of that duty but for cutting off the supply agreed, as it is alleged, to be supplied for reward. Clearly if no order had been made and the Company were supplying electrical energy or any other commodity as a private Company or individual they would have been liable to an action for wrongfully refusing to supply the energy or commodity agreed to be supplied. Can the order be supposed to take away that liability and corresponding right of action in the person aggrieved? I can find nothing in the order to lead me to suppose there was any such intention, on the contrary the order by making provision for the free entering into contracts by the undertakers and consumers and by making no provision for the payment of penalties to persons who may be injured by the breach of such contracts shows clearly to my mind that it was not the intention of the order to free the undertakers from the liability of an action for damages.

For these reasons I am of opinion that the Magistrate's decision was wrong and that an action does lie against the respondents for damages. Of course, I do not in any way find or suggest that the respondents are liable in this case to damages, that is a matter to be decided by the Magistrate after hearing the evidence. I refer the case back to the Magistrate to hear and determine. The respondents must pay the costs of this appeal.

A. V. LUCIE SMITH, J.

THIS 2ND DAY OF JULY, 1902.

CHAN-A-SUE
versus
SEEBARUTH.

This is an appeal from a decision of the Stipendiary Magistrate of the North West Judicial District. It appears that there were two actions before the Magistrate; one by Seebarith against Chan-a-Sue on an account, and one by Chan-a-Sue against Seebarith on two promissory notes, one being for $54 72 and the other for $14 35. The action of Seebarith against Chan-a-Sue was heard first and the amount of the promissory note for $54 72 was deducted from the amount claimed by Seebarith and judgment given in Seebarith's favour for the balance. On the action of Chan-a-Sue against Seebarith coming on the Magistrate gave judgment only for the note for $14 35, as he had in the previous case deducted the $54 72 from Seebarith's account. He does not from the proceedings appear to have heard Chan-a-Sue. Apparently on the face of the documents the Magistrate's decision is just, but he should have followed the procedure laid down in the Petty Debts Recovery Ordinance, 1893, and heard the plaintiff and his witnesses, as well as the defendant and his witnesses if he should so desire, before giving judgment. It is possible that the plaintiff may be in a position to throw a different light on the matter, e.g. there might possibly have been two notes for $54 72.

I reverse the decision of the Magistrate without costs and remit the case back to him to hear and determine according to law.

A. V. LUCIE SMITH, J.

LIMITED JURISDICTION.

THIS 2ND DAY OF JULY, 1902.

versus
CHAPMAN & ANOR.

This is an action opposing the sale of the defendant Logan's right, title and interest of and in certain claim licences, all situate in White Creek, Quartzstone, Cuyuni, levied on by the defendant Chapman by virtue of a judgment obtained by him against the defendant Logan. The reason of opposition is that Logan leased these claims to the plaintiff, and that it is not competent for the defendant Chapman to levy on the claims without reserving to the plaintiff his rights under the lease. The defendant Chapman alleges by way of defence that the lease is not a bona fide one, but made for the purpose of defrauding the creditors of Logan.

The lease purports to have been made on the 9th January, 1902. The plaintiff alleges that Logan saw him on the 7th, asking him to work the claims in partnership, that he refused but said he would hire, and on the 9th, Logan returned and said he would lease. The same day the plaintiff alleges he came over from Vreed-en-Hoop and had the lease drawn between 4 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The demand by Chapman is also dated the 9th January, Logan says it was at his house that same afternoon but he did not see it till next morning. The writ at the instance of Chapman was served on Logan on 10th January. There is no direct evidence that the plaintiff knew of these circumstances, but it is remarkable that he appears to have been in a great hurry to have the lease drawn on the 9th; he came over the river the same day after 4 p.m., he remained while the lease was being drawn in duplicate and had only time to catch the last steamer over the river. There is nothing shown why this haste was necessary. One would imagine that plaintiff would have written to his solicitor or told Logan to have the lease prepared and then come over the river when all was ready. The terms of the lease, I must say, also raise a suspicion in my mind as to its genuineness. It is for all Logan's placers in the Cuyuni river, none are specified (it appears there are nine), the rent is $18 a month or $2 a claim. The lease is for six months with the right to the plaintiff of a continuous renewal after the termination of every term of six months. Logan, the lessor, has no power of putting an end to the lease; the plaintiff can put an end to the lease at any time during any of the terms of six months. It is practically a lease for as long as the plaintiff chooses to keep the property. The lease was not recorded until the 27th January, and notice was not sent to the Department of Lands and Mines until the 31st January. The plaintiff never got possession of the placers or the tools, &c. alleged to have been hired by him. He says he was preparing to work the claims when they were levied on, but no evidence is given of any preparations except that the plaintiff says he told his manager to take possession, but when the levy took place he, on the advice of his lawyer, did not take possession. If the lease was made on the 9th January and plaintiff had already paid a month's rent in advance it seems to me that if it were a bona fide transaction he would have been ready to take over by the 1st of February which day, according to the lease, "the term of lease should be reckoned as commencing from"; the writ of execution was not issued till 4th February, and the advertisement of sale was made on the 7th February. It is admitted that Logan had nothing but these claims and he has leased therefore the whole of his property for what appears to be a very small sum.

The generality of the lease, it being practically for the whole of Logan's property, not even specifying it; the fact that the plaintiff never took possession of the property nor did any thing as far as the evidence shews to do so; that the lease was made almost, it may be said, pendente lite; that it was kept secret that is, not recorded or notified to the Department of Lands and Mines until the 27th January, coupled with the terms of the lease, seem to me to be, what are called in Twyne's case, badges of fraud.

The lease was perfected as between the plaintiff and Logan and if genuine they would have mutual actions thereunder for carrying out the same, it was not, however, consummated or completed between them until the property was delivered. A lease does not create a jus in re, it only gives the right of getting and retaining possession of the thing let. The plaintiff might sue Logan to get possession of the placers but I do not consider that under the circumstances the plaintiff would have any right of opposition until the letting of the placers was completed.

During the trial charges against the professional integrity of the solicitors, Mr. Burgess and Mr. Schlett, were made, which were denied by them. One of the parties must have sworn to what he knew was not true. I can only say I regret extremely that such occurrences should take place, it brings discredit on the profession. I refrain from saying anything more on the subject as further steps may be taken by the parties concerned or others in the matter.

There will be judgment for the defendant with costs.

3. In these Regulations unless a contrary intention appears:—

9. Every holder of a claim licence under the Mining Regulations who has already received a licence under regulation 3 of the Mining (Precious Stones) Regulations, 1896, to search for and when found to take and appropriate precious stones within his claim licence, or who shall hereafter receive a similar licence shall for every future financial year, or part of such year, during which his licence shall be in force pay in advance to the Government instead of the fee prescribed by the aforesaid Regulations, the sum of twenty cents per acre.

10. Every application for a Licence under Regulation 7 shall be advertised by the Commissioner of Lands and Mines in the Official Gazette for three consecutive Saturdays in order to allow of any opposition to the granting of same being made.

11. Every person holding a licence to search for and mine and when found to appropriate precious stones issued under these or any other Regulations shall be bound immediately after he has commenced to work the land for the purpose of extracting precious stones or if he has so commenced to work such land before the coming into force of these Regulations, then immediately on their coming into force to notify in writing the Warden or Government Officer stationed in the district in which the land mentioned in the licence is situate, the quantity of land he intends to work and whether the work commenced is in the nature of alluvial working or mining.

12. If the work commenced is in the nature of mining such holder shall keep a book in the form numbered 4 in the Schedule to these Regulations and record therein at least once a week the number of cubic yards of material removed from the land during the progress of the work; and shall in addition to all other fees and payments pay a sum of 4 cents for each cubic yard of such earth, whether the earth contains precious stones or not.

13. The holder of such claim worked as a mine shall within three months after the date of the notice mentioned in Regulation 11 give security to the satisfaction of the Receiver General for payment of the sum of money mentioned in Regulation 12 and the holder or his agent having knowledge of the fact shall, at least once every six months after the date the security is given, make a statutory declaration as to the quantity of material so removed and the holder shall pay the amount found due in respect thereof, after the Warden or Government Officer has ascertained and certified it. In case of dispute the quantity so certified is to be taken as correct.

14. If the Warden or Government Officer is satisfied that the working is in the nature of alluvial working and the quantity of land mentioned in the notice is correct, he shall give such holder a certificate to that effect and within three months thereafter the said holder shall, in addition to all other fees and payments, pay the sum of $10 for each acre or part of an acre mentioned in such certificate.

15. When an alluvial working is declared, the area shall be staked off by the claimant. In mining claims the area shall be fixed by posts on the boundary of the claim so that each acre of alluvial working shall cover the entire breadth of the mining claim.

16. Every person occupying land under these or any other Precious Stones Regulations shall keep a book in which he shall enter at the close of each day on which precious stones are found, the weight, description (if known), and number of precious stones found therein or thereon.

17. (1) When precious stones are found by any person who has not obtained due permission from the Government to mine or work for them, e.g., by the holder of a Mining Claim in pursuit of gold or by an explorer under a grant made under Section 4, of the Mining Ordinance, 1887, Amendment Ordinance, 1901, or by the owner of private lands in the course of excavations for building, one-tenth in kind or value of all precious stones so discovered shall be paid to the Government.

(2.) Any precious stones found under this Regulation shall be forthwith sent or brought by the finder to Georgetown and shall be lodged at the Department of Lands and Mines within 24 hours after their arrival in Georgetown (days on which the Office is closed excepted), and thereupon an Officer of the Department shall certify the amount of Royalty payable, and such Royalty shall thereupon be paid to the Receiver General.

18. It is optional for the Governor to refuse any licences under these regulations.

19. Any Government Officer may require any person exploring or prospecting or searching the ground to produce his grant, licence or authority so to do, and it shall not be necessary for such Officer to prove that such person was searching for precious stones.

20. Any person exploring, or prospecting or searching the ground (except in the case of private lands) without grant, licence or authority from the Government or refusing or neglecting to produce his grant, licence or authority when required by any Government Officer shall be guilty of a breach of these regulations.

21. It shall be no defence to a prosecution for any breach of the Mining Regulations that the person contravening the same was not mining or working to obtain gold but only to obtain precious stones.

22. A person authorised by Government to explore for, work for, mine for, search for, take or appropriate precious stones may employ such number of labourers to assist him as he may require. Every labourer so employed shall be registered in the same manner as labourers employed under the Mining Regulations. No labourer shall be deemed to be employed by a person authorised as aforesaid unless he is actually working under the supervision and control of that person or some other person duly delegated by him in the locality where the exploration, work, mining, search, taking and appropriation is for the time being carried on.

23. The occupation of all land under these Regulations shall be for the purpose of extracting precious stones only, and it shall not interfere with rights of way, or of portage, if any, or those of persons duly authorised by Government to cut timber, extract ballata juice, or prospect or mine for precious metals or the like.

24. Any Precious Stones dealt with otherwise than in compliance with these Regulations may be detained by the Commissioner of Lands and Mines, or any Warden, or Government Officer, and declared forfeited by the Governor.

25. Every person who—

- (1.) Refuses or neglects to comply with any duty imposed on him by or under these Regulations; or,
- (2.) Performs any act contrary to these Regulations, or not in accordance with their provisions; or
- (3.) Refuses or neglects to comply with any lawful order or direction given him by a Government Officer; or
- (4.) Obstructs any Government Officer in the execution of his duty; or
- (5.) Gives incorrect information in relation to any matter within his knowledge; or (6.) In any other manner whatsoever contravenes these Regulations shall be deemed to have committed a breach of these Regulations and shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding One hundred dollars.

26. Every holder of a licence to prospect, search or mine for Precious Stones who persistently refuses or neglects to carry out any of these Regulations applicable to his case, shall, in addition to any penalty to which he may be liable forfeit all his interest in all or any of the licences held by him, if the Governor so directs.

27. Regulation No. 26, the Regulations under Part 2, the Regulations under Part 3 relating to Water, Timbers and Trail rights, and the Regulations under Parts 4, 6, 8 and 9 of the Mining Regulations, 1899, as amended by the Mining Regulations, 1901, shall, in so far as they are applicable to the searching and Mining for Precious Stones, and to Precious Stones Claim Licences be observed and complied with in the same manner as if they were mutatis mutandis embodied in these Regulations.

28. These Regulations shall come into force on the 1st day of August, 1902.

Made by the Governor and Court of Policy under the provisions of the Mining Ordinance, 1887, on the 25th day of June, 1902.

GOVERNMENT SECRETARY'S OFFICE,
Georgetown, Demerara,

374.

8th July, 1902.

THE following Minute by His Excellency the Governor on the subject of the Imperial Grant to this Colony in aid of the Sugar Industry, pending the coming into operation of the Brussels Convention in September, 1903, is hereby published for the information of all concerned.

By Command,

A. M. ASHMORE,
Government Secretary.

MINUTE BY HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR.

His Majesty's Government has voted a sum of £69,000 to be expended in British Guiana for the following purposes :—

- (a.) Refunding to the present owners of cane plantations as much as possible of the Acreage Tax paid by those plantations for the years 1900-1901 and 1901-1902; the sum available will allow about $4.90 per acre;
- (b.) Paying an equivalent to the present cultivators or farmers of canes on land which has not paid Acreage Tax.

The principal condition of payment is to be that the cultivation and plantation with accessories should be fully maintained in proper working order till 1st of September, 1903, and a written undertaking to this effect must be given with each receipt.

The refunds and payments to cane-farmers will be made in the following manner :—

1/3ths on the 30th June, 1902, or as soon thereafter as practicable.

1/3th on the 30th September, 1902.

1/3th on the 31st December, 1902.

1/3th on the 31st March, 1903.

1/3th on the 30th June, 1903.

The District Commissaries will compile careful statistics of the canes now already under cultivation by cane-farmers, stating the acreage and the various ages of each plantation. (Form of Return below.)

In estimating the entire area belonging to a cane-farmer, any total area of less than half an acre may be disregarded. Any plantation of exactly half an acre or above that area but less than one acre is to be reckoned as a full acre.

The returns should shew the full name and address of each cane-farmer and should be made to the Receiver General as soon as possible.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH
GUIANA.

IN INSOLVENCY.

THIS 4TH DAY OF JULY, 1902.

Re ALFRED DE ANDRADE, Debtor,
Ex parte JAMES ANDREW, a Creditor.

This is an application asking for an order directing Alfred De Andrade, the above mentioned debtor to pay to James Andrew the sum of $168 02 being 20 per cent. on the sum of $840 10, the amount of a claim filed by the said James Andrew against the said debtor and that the said Alfred D'Andrade be ordered to pay the costs of these proceedings.

The grounds of the motion are as follows:—
“That the said Alfred De Andrade was adjudged insolvent in this colony on the 14th day of October, 1899;

That the said James Andrew was at the date of the Receiving Order being made in respect of the estate of the said Alfred De Andrade, a creditor, for the sum of $840 10 which was proved against the said estate;

That on the 9th day of December, 1899, the Supreme Court by its order approved of a composition proposed by the said Alfred De Andrade by which he agreed to pay his concurrent creditors 20 per cent. in full of their claims;

That the Court by order dated 23rd December, 1899, annulled the adjudication of insolvency against the said Alfred De Andrade;

That the said Alfred De Andrade has refused to pay the said James Andrew the dividend on the amount of his proof,” &c.

In support of the motion an affidavit by Mr. Dargan, counsel for mover, has been put in the substance of which is:—

That he (counsel) acted for James Andrew in the proceedings connected with the insolvency of Alfred De Andrade,

That a Receiving Order was made on the 28th August, 1899, and the debtor adjudged insolvent on 14th October, 1899;

That the debtor, at time of Receiving Order, owed mover $840 10, and that the latter filed his claim against De Andrade's estate for that sum;

That the debtor admitted that he was indebted to mover in the said sum;

That the debtor offered a composition of 20 per cent. to his creditors and that such composition was, on the 9th December, 1899, approved by the Court;

That the said Alfred De Andrade has refused to pay the sum payable to the mover under the said composition and directed the attorneys of Mr. G. J. de Freitas who had possession of the moneys to pay the mover, not to pay the same but to pay Mr. D. M. Hutson, barrister-at-law, to be appropriated by him on the account of the said Alfred De Andrade and

That the moneys were so paid to Mr. Hutson.

The debtor, Alfred De Andrade, has also put in an affidavit in which he declares that James Andrew never proved against his (debtor's) estate as alleged in the motion paper, and in the affidavit of Mr. Dargan, and that he tendered $168 02, “being the 20 per cent. payable under my composition scheme” to Mr. Dargan on behalf of James Andrew, and that Mr. Dargan “refused to accept the $168 02 on behalf of Mr. Andrew saying he wanted the amount in full, viz., $840 10.”

The debtor further swears he has not made default in the payment of the sum claimed in the present application.

From this last affidavit it is clear to me that the debtor recognised the mover as a creditor and admitted his right under the composition scheme to the sum of $168 02. Further in the list of his creditors under the composition scheme the debtor set out the name of James Andrew to whom he alleged the sum of $820 20, and who would therefore be entitled under the composition to $164 04.

On behalf of the applicant, Mr. Dargan urged that under Rule 172 of the Insolvency Rules of 1901, which is the same as Rule 144 of the Insolvency Rules of 1884, the only course open to the mover was to apply to the Court for an order on the debtor to pay the amount due under the composition scheme.

Rule 172 is as follows:—When a composition scheme has been approved and default is made in any payment thereunder, either by the debtor or the assignee (if any) no action to enforce such payment shall lie, but the remedy of any person aggrieved shall be by application to the Court.”

Mr. Hutson for the debtor contended that the Court could not make the order asked for under Rule 172, inasmuch as the debtor had not made default in payment of any of the sums due under the composition, the sum of $168 10 for which Andrew was scheduled having been tendered to Mr. Dargan on his behalf and refused by the latter.

For the mover it was said, that, at the time of the insolvency proceedings, there was a suit pending between him and debtor in the Supreme Court to decide whether a certain debt due to him by the latter was a partnership or private debt. The tender of $168 02 to Dargan was made while this case was still sub judice, and it was contended that plaintiff could not file his claim against the insolvent's estate until the decision of the Court was known. The case originally came on for hearing before me on 25th Jan., 1902, and after hearing counsel on either side I subsequently directed that evidence of the facts in the matter should be given by affidavit.

In accordance with this direction certain affidavits, in addition to those originally filed for and against the motion, have been laid over, and on these affidavits I have again heard counsel.

From the evidence before me it appears that a receiving order was made against defendant on 28th August, 1899, and that on 14th October he was adjudged insolvent. On 9th Decr., 1899, a composition was approved by the Court to the following effect, viz., that debtor was to pay in cash 20 per cent. on each of the concurrent debts due by him; on payment of said amount adjudication of insolvency would be annulled and all the property of insolvent be revealed in him; that the amount of the composition should be paid to John A. Murdoch, Esq.

On 23rd Decr., 1899, debtor laid over two schedules, one containing a list of creditors who had filed on his estate and been paid, and the other a list of creditors who had not filed against the estate but who had all been paid with the exception of J. Andrew who is entered in the last schedule for two amounts aggregating $820 20. Against the name of this creditor there appears the following note: "Refused by Mr. Dargan; he said that he would not accept the cheque of $164 04 as it is only 20 per cent. on the amount. This was said in my presence at 12.45 p.m. opposite De Cairo's Branch Store, 15.12.99.—G. M. GONSALVES."

It will be observed from this schedule that the defendant admits owing the mover the sum of $820 20 and that a cheque for $164 04 and not $168 02 as he swears in his affidavit opposing this motion was tendered to and refused by Mr. Dargan. This, however, does not appear to be material as defendant admits that the amount due was $840 10 and that he tendered to Mr. Dargan a cheque on behalf of mover for $168 02 which would be 20 per cent. of the debt, according to the scheme of composition.

The acting Solicitor General for defendant has argued that mover not having filed any proof of his claim has virtually forfeited all right he may have had to partake in the composition scheme, and that the refusal to receive the amount offered by defendant disentitles him to make such an application as that now under discussion there having been no default in payment.

As to the proof, counsel for mover has explained that it was owing to a case between Andrew and D'Andrade being before the Court that no proof was filed with the Administrator General in insolvency, and that when the decision of the Court was given the proceedings in insolvency had been annulled and set aside, and no claim could be filed. There is no provision under the Insolvency Ordinance of 1884 or the rules under it for filing a proof as creditor in a composition scheme. But this difficulty has been met by rule 176 of the Insolvency Ordinance of 20 of 1900, but that, of course, would not apply to this matter, which took place under the Ordinance of 1884.

Affidavits have been put in to show that a proof of the debt due by defendant to mover was filed after the judgment of the Full Court in November, 1900, with an attorney of Mr. G. J. De Freitas who appears to have paid the creditors. It is not clear how Mr. De Freitas came to have the distribution of the payments due to defendant's creditors under the composition, but it is clear from the affidavits, including that of defendant, that he was the agent for making such payments. The order of the Court was that the amount due to the creditors under the scheme should be paid to Mr. Murdoch, and I can discover nothing on record sanctioning the substitution of Mr. De Freitas in his place.

Mr. Hutson argues that filing a claim with an attorney of Mr. de Freitas would be of no effect, but I am of opinion that as he was admittedly the agent of the defendant for the payments under the scheme, —Mr. Murdoch had apparently done nothing,—it was natural and logical that mover should file his claim with him, or in his absence from the colony, with his attorney. That defendant was aware of and acquiesced in the claim of Mr. Andrew, is proved by the fact that $168 02 was exactly 20% of the debt due to the latter, and that a cheque for this amount was drawn up in favour of mover and was in the hands of Mr. de Freitas for some time.

Mr. Edgar Newman Small, a solicitor's clerk, in his affidavit, among other things, declares that in the month of December, 1900, at the request of Mr. Dargan, he took the proof of debt to the office of Mr. G. J. de Freitas, barrister-at-law, who had the conduct of the affairs of the said Alfred De Andrade, to request payment of the amount payable on said proof to the said James Andrew on the composition offered by the said Alfred De Andrade. He says:—"The said G. J. de Freitas was then out of the colony, and I was informed that Mr. M. L. R. Andrade, one of the attorneys of Mr. De Freitas had a cheque to pay the amount due to the said James Andrew. I left the said proof at the office of the said G. J. de Freitas with one of his clerks who promised to deliver same to the said M. L. R. Andrade. On the same day after having left the said proof at the office of Mr. de Freitas, I saw Mr. L. R. Andrade and requested payment of the amount due on the said proof when he informed me that he had a cheque to pay Mr. Andrew but Mr. Alfred De Andrade had instructed him not to pay the same to Mr. Andrew but to Mr. D. M. Hutson. He promised to see Mr. D. M. Hutson and let Mr. Dargan know the result of his interview with Mr. Hutson later."

The substance of this affidavit as to the proof, the drawing up of a cheque in favour of plaintiff for

$168 02 and the statement of M. L. R. Andrade as to why he could not give him the deponent the cheque is corroborated by an affidavit of James McFarlane Aird who described himself as the agent of plaintiff. Mr. Dargan, in paragraph 3 of his affidavit of 2nd May, 1902, refers to the proof being sworn to by Mr. J. M. Aird. In paragraph 6 he declares he saw both attorneys of Mr. G. J. de Freitas and they informed him that Mr. D'Andrade (defendant) had threatened them with a lawsuit if the money was not paid over to him and although "I (Dargan) promised them that Mr. Andrew would enter into a bond to indemnify Mr. De Freitas with respect to any loss he might suffer if he paid the cheque to Mr. Andrew, they informed me that the cheque was handed to D. M. Hutson, Esquire, barrister-at-law, at the request of the said Alfred De Andrade and for the benefit of the said Alfred De Andrade."

The acting Solicitor General admitted during the arguments that after the refusal of Mr. Dargan to accept it defendant used the cheque himself—spent it in fact.

It seems to me that from the evidence that defendant owed the plaintiff $168 02 and that being so Mr. Dargan's refusal to accept the cheque would in no way relieve him of the necessity of paying the same, and the proper course for him to have pursued when applying for the adjudication of insolvency to be annulled would have been to pay the money into Court and not appropriate it to his own use. I am of opinion that demand for payment having been made defendant has made such default of payment as to justify the plaintiff in making this application and I accordingly direct him to pay the plaintiff the sum of $168 02 and costs.

tions and
tion.

5. (1.) An application for a patent must be made in the form set forth in the First Schedule to this Ordinance, or in such other form as may be from time to time prescribed and must be left at the Registrar's Office in the prescribed manner.

(2.) An application must contain a declaration by the applicant, or, in the case of a joint application, by one of the applicants, to the effect that the applicant or one or more of the applicants is or are in possession of an invention, whereof the applicant or one or more of the applicants claims or claim to be the true and first inventor or inventors, and for which the applicant or applicants desires or desire to obtain a patent. The application must be accompanied by either a provisional or complete specification, and must state an address in Georgetown for the reception of notices and other communications with respect to the application or invention.

(3.) A provisional specification must describe the nature of the invention, and be accompanied by drawings, if required.

(4.) A complete specification, whether left on application or subsequently, must particularly describe and ascertain the nature of the invention, and in what manner it is to be performed, and must be accompanied by drawings, if required. Provided that the requirements as to drawings shall not be deemed to be insufficiently complied with by reason only that instead of being accompanied by drawings the complete specification refers to the drawings which accompanied the provisional specification.

(5.) A specification, whether provisional or complete, must commence with the title, and in the case of a complete specification must end with a distinct statement of the invention claimed.

6. The Registrar shall, if he think fit, refer any application to an examiner, who shall ascertain whether the nature of the invention has been fairly described and the application, specification, and drawings (if any) have been prepared in the prescribed manner, and the title sufficiently indicates the subject matter of the invention, and shall report thereon to the Registrar.

Registrar may refer application to examiner.

7. (1.) If the Registrar is of opinion, or if, after reference to an examiner such examiner reports that the nature of the invention is not fairly described, or that the application, specification, or drawings has not or have not been prepared in the prescribed manner, or that the title does not sufficiently indicate the subject-matter of the invention, the Registrar may refuse to accept the application or require that the application, specification, or drawings be amended, before he proceeds with the application; and in the latter case the application shall, if the Registrar so direct, bear date as from the time when the requirement is complied with.

Power for Registrar to refuse application or require amendment.

(2.) Where the Registrar refuses to accept the application or requires an amendment, the applicant may appeal from his decision to the Attorney-General.

(3.) The Attorney-General shall, if required, hear the applicant and the Registrar, and may make an order determining whether and subject to what conditions (if any) the application shall be accepted.

(4.) The Registrar shall, when an application has been accepted, give notice thereof to the applicant.

(5.) If after an application has been made, but before the patent thereon has been sealed, another application for a patent is made, accompanied by a specification bearing the same or a similar title, the Registrar, if he think fit, on the request of the second applicant or of his legal representative may, within two months of the grant of a patent on the first application either decline to proceed with the second application or allow the surrender of the patent, if any, granted thereon.

Time for leaving complete specification.

8. (1.) If the applicant do not leave a complete specification with his application, he may leave it at any subsequent time within nine months from the date of application, and the Registrar may, on payment of the prescribed fee, extend such time to ten months.

(2.) Unless a complete specification is left within nine months or such extended time, the application shall be deemed to be abandoned.

Comparison of provisional and complete specification.

9. (1.) Where a complete specification is left after a provisional specification, the Registrar may, if he think fit, refer both specifications to an examiner for the purpose of ascertaining whether the complete specification has been prepared in the prescribed manner, and whether the invention particularly described in the complete specification is substantially the same as that which is described in the provisional specification.

(2.) If the Registrar is of opinion, or if, after reference to an examiner, such examiner report that the conditions hereinbefore contained have not been complied with, the Registrar may refuse to accept the complete specification unless and until the same shall have been amended to his satisfaction; but any such refusal shall be subject to appeal to the Attorney-General.

(3.) The Attorney General shall, if required, hear the applicant and the Registrar, and may make an order determining whether and subject to what conditions, if any, the complete specification shall be accepted.

(4.) Unless a complete specification is accepted within twelve months from the date of application, or such extended time not exceeding fifteen months from the date of application, as the Registrar on payment of the prescribed fee may allow, then (save in the case of an appeal having been lodged against the refusal to accept) the application shall, at the expiration of the said twelve months, or such extended time, become void.

(5.) Reports of examiners shall not in any case be published or be open to public inspection, and shall not be liable to production or inspection in any legal proceeding, other than an appeal to the Attorney General under this Ordinance, unless the Court or officer having power to order discovery in such legal proceeding shall certify that such production or inspection is desirable in the interests of justice and ought to be allowed.

10. On the acceptance of the complete specification, the Registrar shall advertise the acceptance in the "Gazette" and the application and specification or specifications with the drawings (if any) shall be open to public inspection.

Advertisement on acceptance of complete specification

11. (1.) Any person may, at any time within two months from the date of the advertisement of the acceptance of a complete specification, give notice at the Registrar's Office of opposition to the grant of the patent on the ground of an applicant having obtained the invention from him, or from a person of whom he is the legal representative, or on the ground that the invention has been patented in this colony on application of prior date, or on the ground that the complete specification describes or claims an invention other than that described in the provisional specification, and that such other invention forms the subject of an application made by the opponent in the interval between the leaving of the provisional specification and the leaving of the complete specification, but on no other ground.

Opposition to grant of patent.

(2.) Where such notice is given, the Registrar may require the person giving such notice to give security to an amount not exceeding one hundred and twenty dollars for the costs of the opposition; and if the security so required is not given within the said two months, the opposition shall lapse.

(3.) Where such notice and such security, if required, is given, the Registrar shall give notice of the opposition to the applicant, and shall, on the expiration of the said two months, after hearing the applicant and the person so giving notice, if desirous of being heard, decide on the case, but subject to appeal to the Attorney-General.

(4.) The Attorney-General shall, on such appeal, hear the applicant and any person so giving notice and being, in the opinion of the Attorney-General, entitled to be heard in opposition to the grant, and shall determine whether the grant ought or ought not to be made.

(5.) The Attorney-General may, if he think fit, obtain the assistance of an expert, who shall be paid such remuneration as the Attorney-General shall determine.

(6.) The Attorney General or the Registrar, as the case may be, may, after decision, make such order as may be thought fit for the payment of costs by the applicant to the party giving notice or vice versa, and such order may be made a rule of Court on an application ex parte.

13. (1.) If there be no opposition, or, in the case of opposition, if the determination is in favour of the grant of a patent, such patent shall be sealed with the public seal of the colony.

(2.) A patent shall be sealed as soon as may be, and not after the expiration of fifteen months from the date of application, except in the cases hereinafter mentioned, that is to say:—

(a.) Where the sealing is delayed by an appeal to the Attorney-General, or by opposition to the grant of the patent, the patent may be sealed at such time as the Attorney-General may direct.

(b.) If the person making the application die before the expiration of the fifteen months aforesaid, the patent may be granted to his legal representative and sealed at any time within six months after the death of the applicant.

(c.) Where the Registrar has extended the time for leaving or the time for accepting the complete specification, or both such times the total period of time so extended shall be added to the period of fifteen months above provided.

Date of patent.

14. Every patent shall be in duplicate, and one duplicate shall be deposited in the Registrar's Office, and every patent shall be dated and sealed as of the day of the application: Provided that no proceedings shall be taken in respect of an infringement committed before the publication of the complete specification: Provided also, that in case of more than one application for a patent for the same invention, the sealing of a patent on one of those applications shall not prevent the sealing of a patent on an earlier application.

Provisional Protection.

protection.

15 Where an application for a patent in respect of an invention has been accepted, the invention may during the period between the date of the application and the date of sealing such patent be used and published without prejudice to the patent to be granted for the same; and such protection from the consequences of use and publication is in this Ordinance referred to as provisional protection.

Protection by Complete Specification.

Effect of acceptance
specification.

16. After the acceptance of a complete specification, and until the date of sealing a patent in respect thereof, or the expiration of the time for sealing, the applicant shall have the like privileges and rights as if a patent for the invention had been sealed on the date of the acceptance of the complete specification: Provided that an applicant shall not be entitled to institute any proceeding for infringement, unless and until a patent for the invention has been granted to him.

(3.) If nevertheless, in any case, by accident, mistake, or inadvertence, a patentee fail to make any prescribed payments within the prescribed time, he may apply to the Registrar for an enlargement of the time for making that payment.

(4.) Thereupon the Registrar shall, if satisfied that the failure has arisen from any of the above-mentioned causes, on receipt of the prescribed fee for enlargement, not exceeding forty-eight dollars enlarge the time accordingly, subject to the following conditions:

(a.) The time for making any payment shall not in any case be enlarged for more than six months.

(b.) If any proceeding shall be taken in respect of an infringement of the patent committed after a failure to make any payment within the prescribed time, and before the enlargement thereof the Court before which the proceeding is proposed to be taken may, if it shall think fit, refuse to award or give any damages in respect of such infringement.

Amendment of Specification

21. (1.) An applicant or a patentee may, from time to time, by request in writing left at the Registrar's Office, seek leave to amend his specification, including drawings forming part thereof, by way of disclaimer, correction, or explanation, stating the nature of such amendment and his reason for the same.

Amendment of specification.

(2.) The request and the nature of such proposed amendment shall be advertised in the Gazette, and at any time within one month from its first advertisement any person may give notice at the Registrar's Office of opposition to the amendment.

(3.) Where such notice is given, the Registrar shall give notice of the opposition to the person making the request, and shall hear and decide the case, subject to an appeal to the Attorney-General.

(7.) The Attorney-General shall, if required, hear the person making the request and the Registrar, and may make an order determining whether, and subject to what conditions, if any, the amendment ought to be allowed.

(8.) No amendment shall be allowed that would make the specification, as amended, claim an invention substantially larger than or substantially different from the invention claimed by the specification as it stood before amendment.

(9.) Leave to amend shall be conclusive as to the right of the party to make the amendment allowed, except in case of fraud; and the amendment shall in all courts and for all purposes be deemed to form part of the specification.

(10.) The foregoing provisions of this section do not apply when and so long as any action for infringement or proceeding for revocation of a patent is pending.

alleged manufacture, use, sale, or purchase of the invention, any person or persons aggrieved thereby may bring an action against him, and may obtain an injunction against the continuance of such threats, and may recover such damage (if any) as may have been sustained thereby, if the alleged manufacture, use, sale, or purchase to which the threats related was not in fact an infringement of any legal rights of the person making such threats: Provided that this section shall not apply if the person making such threats with due diligence commence and prosecute an action for infringement of his patent.

LIMITED JURISDICTION.

THIS 4TH DAY OF JULY, 1902.

J. A. RALEIGH

versus

A. P. G. JASMINS.

This is a claim for an order cancelling and setting aside a contract of sale entered into between the plaintiff and the defendant on the 8th February, 1902, and for the delivery of a promissory note for the sum of $110, given by the plaintiff to the defendant in pursuance of the said contract, the plaintiff being ready and willing to deliver up the dog cart, the subject of the said contract, on restitution to him of the said promissory note.

In his statement of claim plaintiff says that by a letter dated 7th February, 1902, one C. A. Young offered him a dog cart which he (Young) alleged was good and nearly new. Relying on the representations made by the said C. A. Young, plaintiff states that he bought the dog cart for $110, but finding after the sale that the cart was not a good cart and not nearly new, he, on the 11th February, wrote to Young stating that the cart was not what it had been represented to be, and asking him to cancel the sale. On the 12th February, C. A. Young wrote to plaintiff to the effect that in selling the dog cart he acted as agent of the defendant Jasmins, and that the latter declined to cancel the contract.

Plaintiff further alleges that but for the false and fraudulent representations of C. A. Young he would not have bought the cart, the market value of which is only $50, which is less than half the amount ($110) which he agreed to pay.

In defence defendant denies paragraphs 1, 2, 3 and 4 of the statement of claim. He denies that Young acted as his agent or that he was authorized to make any of the representations alleged by the plaintiff, or that he did make such representations. He further declares that in buying the cart plaintiff did not rely on the alleged representations made by Young, but bought the same after due inspection and careful examination and at a price fixed and offered by the plaintiff himself and that even if the latter did buy on any representations of C. A. Young, which, however is specifically denied, such representations were neither false nor fraudulent and the plaintiff was in no way misled thereby.

The plaintiff, C. A. Young, Chilcott, a coach builder, and Mr. W. Bagot, a licensed auctioneer, were called in support of the claim, no witnesses being examined for the defence.

It appears from the evidence adduced at the hearing that on the 7th February, 1902, C. A. Young wrote a letter to plaintiff as follows:—

"I am told that you are wishful of purchasing a good dog cart, if that is so, I do hereby beg to offer you one nearly new by Messrs. Mason & Co., London. I will let you have it on most easy terms, half in cash and the balance in a note for 3 months. The price is $130. On hearing from you I shall have it brought round for your inspection." To this plaintiff replied on same date:—

"$130 is rather high for a dog cart unless it is exceptionally good. You can have it brought round here at 11 a.m. to-morrow and I will see what can be done. Thanking you for your favour," &c.

It may be gathered from this last note that plaintiff appeared to have some knowledge of the prices of dog carts.

C. A. Young was the first witness called by the plaintiff. He admitted writing the letter dated 7th February and says: "In that letter I underlined 'good' and 'new' because I understood from Mr. Jasmins that what was done to the cart would make it as good as new." * * * Defendant told me not very long ago he had a pair of new wheels, new shafts, back and front jalousies added to it and painted, and that it was in good order. I examined the cart and found what Jasmins told me was true."

The witness took the cart to Mr. Raleigh at 11 a.m. on 8th February. He says:—"Raleigh examined cart. He then asked me how old the cart was and I said I could not tell him but that it had been lately done up with new wheels, new shafts, back and front jalousies and painting, and that it was as good as new. Those were exactly my words." Raleigh asked if the cart went smoothly and I said he had better try it and see, and he did try it by driving it round the Sea Wall and back again to Main Street. When he came back he said he was satisfied with the cart, it went smoothly but he thought $130 was too much for it. After some conversation he offered me $110 for it.

I asked him if he will pay cash; he said he will pay half in cash and the balance in three months—$50 on 28th February, and balance in ninety days."

This apparently was agreed to and plaintiff gave a promissory note in favour of Jasmins. It was while this note was being made that it appeared Young was acting as the agent of the defendant Jasmins.

In cross-examination witness said "Raleigh carefully examined the cart. He noticed a splint in wheel. Raleigh, after driving cart, said he was pleased with cart. He had offer of another but he preferred cushions of my cart. He said he could import better carts for less money. He then offered $110."

Plaintiff examined says he understood by letter of 7th "cart was nearly a new cart by Messrs. Mason and Sons, London." Not that, "it was a cart practically rebuilt in colony" or he would not have bought it. He admits he drove in the cart and that "it ran very nicely." He says after the drive he offered $100 but Young refused the offer and went away. Subsequently, on Young returning and saying he would take $110 for the cart, the sale was agreed on for that sum. He never had the cart examined by a coach-builder but that it looked "bright and nice." He declares that in buying he relied solely on Young's letter. He admits he may have seen the cart had been varnished and had very minute repairs but he denies that Young told him the cart had new wheels, new shafts and new jalousies. He found out after the sale, cart had been in the colony ten years, and that he had paid too much for it. In cross-examination plaintiff said he understood by "nearly new" that the cart was about six or nine months from the manufactures; he never examined the cart at all and knows nothing of dog carts.

Thomas William Chilcott, a coach-builder, examined, stated that he knew the dog cart in question, had known it for three years and was aware it had been in colony long before he knew it. He described certain repairs which had been done to the cart, and says it is quite a good cart but not nearly new and that it would not fetch more than $50 or $60 at the most as it is very heavy and persons would not buy it as it is not suitable for creole animals. The original cost of the cart must have been, he considers, about $240.

Mr. Walter Bagot, examined on behalf of plaintiff, said he had known cart for a long time, he would not call it nearly new, and he would say a fair market price for it would be $50, (? by auction) a cart of this kind difficult to sell as it is very heavy.

The claim for the rescission of the contract in this case is made in accordance with the doctrine of lesio enormis under the Roman Dutch law.

Lesio enormis or enormous disproportion of price, is where one buys an article at more than double its value, or where one sells for a price which is less than half of the value of the article sold. Here it is alleged the price paid by the plaintiff, $110 for the dog cart, was more than half its real value, which is said to be only $50. It would appear from some of the writers that the action for lesio is not limited to cases where more than double the real value of the article bought is paid by the purchaser, but applies even in those where the disproportion of the price paid to the value of the article sold is not so great. For example, in Burge Vol. II. p. 474, we find: "This inequality is called enormis lesio, and exists when the price paid by the purchaser is less than half the value of the property sold, as if the purchaser had paid £400 for that which was worth £1,000, or if the price paid exceed its value by more than one half, or when he has paid £1,600 for that which was only worth £1,000." And again in Berwick's translation of Voet's Commentary on the Pandects p. 117 is the following:—"A person is considered to have suffered lesion beyond a half, not merely when (for example) he has bought a thing worth ten gold pieces for twenty-one but also when he has bought it for sixteen [i.e. not only when he pays more than double the value, but when he pays more than half above the real value—Tr.] For, as there is lesion whenever there is a want of just proportion between the price and the commodity sold, it cannot be denied that just as a vendor is presumed to suffer lesion exceeding a half, if not half of the real value be paid, and therefore when paid less than five gold pieces for a thing, the just price of which is ten, so also a purchaser must be said to be injured if he pays the vendor of a thing, more than five gold pieces above its true value of ten. It is clear law that in the contract of purchase the respective obligations of vendor and purchaser are equal and that the vendor, on the one hand, ought to acquire ten aurei by way of price, in the stead of a thing worth ten aurei which is lost to his patrimony, and that the purchaser who, on the other hand, diminishes his patrimony by the payment of ten aurei ought to have the worth of ten in the value of the thing sold; since therefore each is bound to the other for the same quantity, either in price or in commodity, it would be inequitable that the one, any more than the other, should be damaged without legal remedy or rectification of the inequality. * * * Further as the remedy under this law also holds in barter, as will be hereafter shown, barter being similar to purchase, wherefore as the same amount of lesion on the side of either party to that contract affords scope for the aid of this remedy, so also there is no reason why in the contract of purchase the same amount of lesion should not give the right of invoking this remedy equally to the purchaser as the vendor."

I have thought fit to make this lengthy quotation from Berwick's translation, because some commentators have doubted or denied the right of a purchaser to bring an action for lesio, such actions being—according to them—limited to vendors. The passage quoted and the cases cited show this not to be the case.

In the opinions of Grotius (de Bruyn's translation p. 632.) we find:—"Enormous loss is, speaking generally, considered to be damage sustained to the extent of one half of the value of the property in question. Thus where A bought a property for less than one half of its real value, and it was proved that the vendor was of infirm mind, the Court granted relief both on the ground of lesio enormis and idioey. Likewise where a ring had been sold for £45, and it was proved that the fair marketable value thereof was only £20, the Court, in an action by the vendor for the payment of the full purchase price, gave judgment in favour of the vendee (Levison v Williams, Buc. 1875, 108). By the General Law Amendment Act of 1879, relief on the ground of lesio enormis was abolished, the reason being that it was in conflict with free commerce, ample relief being afforded by the common law in cases of fraud or mistake."

I have been unable to find any local instance of an action for rescission of contract on the ground of lesio enormis, nor have I, on the other hand, been able to discover any thing to show that such actions may not be brought in the Courts of this colony. It may be that the common law here affords ample protection and relief in causes of fraud and mistake, but in an action for relief on the ground of lesio enormis fraud is not necessarily involved, unless by reason of the enormous lesion being apparent fraud may be said to be involved ipsa res in se dolum habet. That is instanced by the case of Levison v Williams, referred to above, where De Villiers, C. J. in his judgment said:—"There is no necessity to go into the question of fraud. It is quite possible that the plaintiff may have given £30 for the ring and resold it for £45 without any intention to defraud the defendant. The simple question is whether it was sold for a price more than double its fair value. I have no doubt the purchaser did not know she was giving more than double its value when she bought the ring. Taking this view of the facts, the defendant is entitled to the judgment of the Court."

By Act (Cape) No. 8 of 1879, sec. 8, no contract is now voidable, at the Cape, by reason merely of lesio enormis.

In the present case although the plaintiff alleges fraud on the part of the vendor by his agent Young, the facts elicited by the evidence convince me that there was nothing of what we generally understood as fraud in the action of either defendant or Young. The whole transaction seems to me to have been a clear and open one. Young certainly did write that the cart was "good" and "nearly new," but he explains that by "nearly new" he meant the cart was as "good as new," and in any case it does not seem to be an expression going beyond the ordinary puffing generally allowed to a vendor. Moreover, if Young did tell the plaintiff of the repairs which had been done to the cart as he swears he did, then Mr. Raleigh must have known that the cart could not have been nearly new in the sense that it had but recently, or within a few months, come from the hands of the makers in London. Mr. Raleigh certainly denies that Young told him of the extensive repairs done to the cart, but it is possible he may have forgotten what took place between himself and Young when the cart was brought for his inspection. It is not probable that Young would try to foist upon a man of plaintiff's profession a dog cart as being nearly new from the makers when the fraud was likely to be at once detected. For it is, I think, a matter of common belief that a "Vet's" knowledge is not limited to horses but extends to the vehicles in which they are driven. But whether this is so or not, I feel certain that plaintiff did not rely altogether on Young's letter offering to sell, in making the purchase. The cart, at his request was taken for his inspection. He saw it, he says superficially or casually, then he drove in it, and then he valued it, for he offered $100 when the price asked was $130.

As for the evidence of the marketable value of the article I am not altogether satisfied. Mr. Bagot says the cart is not worth more than $50. Presumably he means that is the price it might fetch if sold by auction. Chilcott thinks at most not more than $60 would be obtained for it and this last amount is more than half the price paid. Both Mr. Bagot and Mr. Chilcott acknowledge the cart is a "good" cart so Young's statement that the cart was "good" is, so far as that goes, substantially correct.

But it is not to every one it is permitted to bring this action for lesio enormis. Voet in the Pandects. (Sir Rowland Wilson's translation p. 94), says:—"This legal remedy must also be refused to those who being aware of the fair and true price have nevertheless sold property of their own at less than half, or bought property of another for more than half such true price. For such a person can neither complain of loss nor wrong, since anyone who acts with his eyes opened is not deceived, but rather deceives himself, and no wrong is done to a willing and consenting party, nor is that considered to be a loss; which a person suffers by his own fault."

Now according to plaintiff's own statement he had some knowledge of dog-carts and their prices, although he declares he did not know prices in British Guiana. It does not appear why he should desire to see and to drive in the cart unless he wishes to form his own opinion as to the price he ought to pay. And that this is so may be gathered from the fact that after his inspection and drive he offered $100, although the vendor's price was $130. In offering $100 for the cart I am of opinion that he did so because he considered it worth that sum to him (although it might not be so to others) and that his knowledge of dog-carts was sufficient to enable him to come to a conclusion as to what he ought to pay, and his agreement to give $110 at the end in no way upsets this theory. I am not satisfied that plaintiff was so ignorant of dog-carts and their values as he wishes the Court to believe; this was not his first transaction of the kind for he says "I have generally bought of reliable people." There is nothing to show that the vendor in this instance was less reliable than other persons with whom the plaintiff had dealt. And as to the price paid it may be that an article may not fetch a ready sale because of there being no demand for that particular kind. But it would be absurd to suppose that a person is bound to sell a thing below its real value, because there is no general demand for it. He may prefer to keep it until a purchaser comes who may desire to buy or requires that particular thing, and in that case he may sell it for its real value although the general public would not buy it, or, if they bought, give the same price. It is not said that the cart in question was too highly priced for a person who required that kind of vehicle, but that it is too heavy for the general public. Plaintiff saw the cart, was satisfied that it would suit him, and made an offer of what he thought it was worth. I cannot see that he has either been defrauded by or suffered loss through the defendant. The case is dismissed with costs.

INSOLVENCY JURISDICTION.

THIS 7TH DAY OF JULY, 1902.

In Re M. DE SOUZA,

Ex parte THE ASSIGNEE vs. M. A. DE SOUZA.

This is an application by the Assignee for an order declaring that the sums of $300, and $277 50 paid by the Insolvent to Maria Augusta de Souza on the 14th and 18th days of March, 1902, respectively, shall be deemed fraudulent and void against the Assignee and that the said Maria Augusta de Souza be ordered to pay the Assignee the said sums with interest and costs. The ground of the application is that the payments are void under section 44 of the Insolvency Ordinance as having been made by the insolvent within three months previous to his adjudication, with a view of preferring Maria Augusta de Souza over his other creditors, the insolvent at that time being unable to pay his debts as they became due from his own money.

The evidence put before the Court by the applicant to prove his case is that of the applicant himself, Mr. da Silva and Mr. Farnum. The applicant proves that Manoel de Souza was adjudged insolvent on the 26th March, 1902, that in September, October and November, 1901, he did not meet certain acceptances of his amounting to some $3,000, and he also gives evidence generally as to the insolvent's affairs when taken over by him. Mr. da Silva proves that the insolvent did not take up his promissory note for $295 95 which was dated July, 1901. Mr. Farnum is called to prove the position of the insolvent as it is shewn by his books.

No actual proof of the payments to Mrs. de Souza was given except what was stated by Farnum as appearing in the insolvent's books. I held at the hearing that, as Mrs. de Souza did not by her notice of what she intended to prove in any way deny or lead the other side to suppose she denied the payments to her, the evidence of Mr. Farnum was prima facie sufficient. Mrs. de Souza herself gave evidence and admitted the money was paid to her and she also stated that it was money belonging to her and her children left by her deceased husband which she had lent to the insolvent. This was admitted by the applicant to be true. Mrs. de Souza also stated that she wanted the money to pay the expenses of her children going to Madeira; whether she has actually spent it for that purpose does not appear. As the money or part of it belongs to the minor children it appears to me this application must fail. If Mrs. de Souza herself was the creditor then when she received the money she must be taken to have appropriated the minors share to them as she is their guardian and I am of opinion that the minors would be protected under sub-section (3). If Mrs. de Souza for herself and as guardian of her minor children was the creditor then I could not make an order on Mrs. de Souza personally to repay the whole sum and there is no evidence to shew how much she received for herself. This objection was not taken but the Court I think should see that minors interests are not prejudiced when the evidence brings it to the notice of the Court that minors are interested.

There appear to me to be many difficulties in this case owing to lack of evidence. The insolvent himself has not been called as a witness and it seems to me extremely doubtful if the evidence of Mr. Farnum as to the result of his examination of the books is admissible as against third parties without the insolvent having been examined as to the correctness of those books. The statements of the insolvent in his examination are certainly not admissible as against third parties in subsequent motions by the assignee in the same insolvency ex parte Board of Trade re Brunner 4, Morrell 255.

Mr. Farnum, in his examination-in-chief, states generally that the insolvent's "position was not materially changed between the time he got the money (that is the insurance money when he paid Mrs. de Souza) and the time when he applied for "a receiving order." In cross-examination he states "my investigation points to a deficiency of $3,500, "he has not accounted for that, not in stock, disappeared, if he accounted for that he would still be insolvent to the extent of $900, i. e. $900 to the bad, "on the 12th April, if the $3,500, of the stock stolen. "If his stock had been properly accounted for he would have paid his debts. By the books he was perfectly solvent apart from these irregularities. "He has drawn out of his business $2,400, in excess of his usual drawings, if that $2,400 good asset then solvent, if not good then deficiency $900, he closed "his cash account every month by taking the cash." The whole of Mr. Farnum's evidence relates to the 12th April, the payments to Mrs. de Souza were on the 14th and 15th of March. The only evidence of the insolvent's position on those days is Mr. Farnum's statement that it was materially the same as on the 12th April. Mr. Farnum says that $3,500 of the stock has disappeared, there is nothing to shew when it disappeared, it is possible that the insolvent subsequently to the 18th March, fraudulently removed part of his stock and gave it to someone else. Similar remarks would apply to the $2,400. On this evidence and the fact that the insolvent did not meet certain acceptances am I justified in law in presuming as against an admittedly innocent third party that the insolvent was on the 18th March, unable to pay his debts? The fact that the insolvent did not pay his acceptances and subsequently became insolvent without paying them raises a very strong suspicion that he was unable to pay his debts. But the insolvent has not been called, possibly he might have some explanation and I think it lay on the applicant to call him as a witness, not having done so if any presumptions are to be drawn they cannot be drawn against Mrs. de Souza. I consider that where it is sought to make a payment to a bona fide creditor, who has no notice, void as preferent it must be clearly shewn that the insolvent was at the time of payment unable to pay his debts.

The matter is made more difficult for me because I am aware of certain evidence given in other proceedings, but I must decide this matter solely on the evidence put before me in these proceedings.

To declare a payment void under section 44 of the Ordinance it must also be proved that the payment was made with the dominant view of giving the payee a preference over the other creditors. The section of the local Ordinance has a sub-section (2) which is not in the English Act; it is to the effect that the fact that the debtor was pressed by his creditor shall not prevent the transaction being void. This sub-section makes it extremely difficult to say what the word "preference" in sub-section (1) means. In the cases decided under the English Act it is laid down that the use of the word "preference" implying an act of free will would of itself make it necessary to consider whether pressure had or had not been used. (Butcher vs. Stead, L.R. 7 H.L. 839.) The onus of proving what view or intent the insolvent had in making the payment lies on the Assignee. In re Laurie Ex parte Green, 5, Manson 49. There is no direct evidence of intent given in this case. It is said that the intent to prefer must be presumed because the insolvent took the money received by him from the Insurance Company to pay his relatives and because he did not pay any of his foreign as distinguished from his local creditors it must be presumed he had no intention of carrying on his business but made the payments in contemplation of insolvency. There is no legal proof that the insolvent paid his relatives other than Mrs. de Souza, the statement of Mr. Farnum that such payments appear in the insolvent's books is not evidence against Mrs. de Souza that such payments were made. That certain foreign creditors were not paid is proved but why they were not paid is not shewn. Mr. Farnum states that "the insolvent did not at all "cease buying and selling up to end of March, 1902," he appears to have dealt more locally, his local purchases rising from $400 to $1,536 48 in February. A payment made spontaneously by the debtor without any pressure would unexplained carry with it the presumption that the intention of the debtor was to act in fraud of the Bankruptcy Law (Bills v. Smith, L.J., 34, Q.B. 68.) We have no explanation from the insolvent. The explanation given by Mrs. de Souza is to the effect that the insolvent knew the money was her children's money, and on being asked to pay agreed to pay directly he received the Fire Insurance money which he did. It is contended on behalf of Mrs. de Souza that the view that insolvent had was not to prefer Mrs. de Souza but to carry out his agreement and in order to satisfy his own conscience. The Court has not had the advantage of seeing and hearing the insolvent under examination and cross-examination on this point. I do not think, however, that if the payment was made under a sense of duty or honour only and not under what the debtor considered a legal obligation that it would be sufficient to take the payment out of section 44. In re Vignoe and Davies ex parte Viney 1 Manson 416, In re Fletcher ex parte Suffolk 9, Morrell 8.

It was contended by counsel for Mrs. de Souza that she was protected under section 45. This contention seems to me to be quite untenable, section 45 expressly declares that that section does not apply to the state of facts dealt with by section 44.

For the above reasons I can only say that sufficient legal evidence has not been laid before the Court to entitle the applicant, on whom the onus of proof is, to the order asked for. This application must be dismissed with costs.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.IN INSOLVENCY.

THIS 8TH DAY OF JULY, 1902.

In re DE SOUZA,

Ex parte ASSIGNEE vs. JOAQUIM.

This is an application for an order to declare a payment made by the insolvent to Joaquim void under section 44 of the Insolvency Ordinance.

The payment was made on the 31st January, 1902, and the insolvent was adjudged insolvent on his own petition dated 15th April, 1902.

This case differs considerably from In re de Souza ex parte Assignee v. M. A. de Souza in which judgment was given yesterday in as much as the insolvent was called as a witness and practically proved the applicant's case.

The insolvent, in his evidence, stated that his acceptances due in September, 1901, and following months were not paid by him as he did not have the money to pay and he was not cross-examined on the point. I think on the insolvent's evidence it is clear that he was unable to pay his debts on the 31st January. It is true Mr. Farnum states that from the books that if he realized the stock, &c. and got the insurance money he could have paid in full, but the books do not seem to be very reliable. I consider that as the insolvent himself admits that he was unable to pay his acceptances as they became due because he had not the money and he shortly afterwards became insolvent with a large deficiency and it is not shown that he met with any particular loss between those dates I can only come to the conclusion that he was unable to pay his debts on the 31st of January. It is said that with the insurance money the insolvent could have paid his debts. This is not so, for he got the last of the insurance money in March, paid it all out and had in April, when he was adjudicated insolvent, a deficiency larger than the amount of the insurance received. He says he promised to pay his acceptances to Plimsoll, out of the insurance money but did not do so. Instead he pays Joaquim his brother-in-law. He further said there was no particular reason why he paid Joaquim. The payment was not made in the ordinary course of business and there can be no doubt was made with a view to preferring Joaquim.

The order asked for will be made with costs.

THIS 9TH DAY OF JULY, 1902.

J. A. BRYAN, as father and natural guardian of the minor T. BRYAN

versus

H. J. BOWEN, Original Defendant and

J. A. BRYAN, Co-Defendant.

This is an opposition to the sale at execution of the west half of the west half of lot Q, Hadfield Street, part of Plantation Werk-en-Rust, situate on the East Bank of the Demerara River, with all the buildings and erections thereon.

The opposition is entered on the ground that the property levied on is not the property of the judgment-debtor, J. A. Bryan, but of his minor son, Theophilus Bryan.

I have felt considerable embarrassment in dealing with this case on account of the allegation that the property belongs to a minor. No evidence whatever has been given by plaintiff in support of the opposition, but his counsel has laid over a transport which shows that the property in dispute really belongs to the minor. The Court is always careful of the interests of minors, and will not allow property to be lost to them because of the neglect and laches of those whose duty it is to protect them and their property.

As this matter cannot be heard during the vacation, I think it should stand over till 2nd September, and that date is peremptorily fixed for the hearing. This will enable those interested in the minor either to adduce evidence on his behalf, or to approach the Chief Justice with a view to a guardian being appointed for the purposes of this case, a guardian who will take a more serious view of the responsibility of his position than the father of the child appears to have done. In any case I consider it advisable that some evidence should be given by the defendants that the property, although in the name of the minor, is not his really but belongs to the co-defendant and is liable for his debts. Fraud has been alleged by original defendant and some evidence of fraud should I think be given. The question of costs must be decided when the case is finally disposed of, due consideration being given to the fact that the delay in dealing with the matter cannot be attributed to the original defendant.

HANNIBAL JOHNSON.

This is an application on behalf of Sarah Amanda Clark for an order to strike out the statement of claim in the opposition action by Hannibal Johnson against her on the ground that the said statement of claim does not disclose a reasonable cause of action.

It seems to me that by mistake or oversight a copy of the reasons of opposition or extract minute of opposition has not been served on applicant as should have been done. I direct that a copy of such extract of opposition as is referred to in the statement of claim served on applicant be served on the first available day after the close of this vacation. Costs of this application to be paid by Hannibal Johnson, the plaintiff in the action and these costs are to be paid before the action is heard.

SIMON MAY & CO.

W. H. MCGOWAN (trading as W. H. McGowan & Co.)

This is an action for the sum of $388 86 for goods sold and delivered, brought on behalf of plaintiffs by Eustace Gordon Woolford, described as their substituted attorney in this colony against the defendant, represented by his attorneys, Albert John Collier and Patrick Dargan.

The evidence adduced in this case convince me that the goods, the subject of this claim, were ordered by W. H. McGowan & Co. from Simon May & Co. through Mr. Pereira, an agent of the latter firm. And it is clear also the goods so ordered were received by the defendant. In fact the receipt of the goods has not been seriously contested and is admitted in the affidavit of Mr. Dargan in support of the application for leave to defend, and is not denied specifically in the pleadings which simply deny such goods were received from plaintiffs. The real question at issue is whether the defendant is liable for the price of the said goods to the plaintiffs or to the trustee in bankruptcy of the firm of Smoltze, Richmond & Co., of London. Did he buy of plaintiffs or did he buy of Smoltze, Richmond & Co. Defendant's counsels' principal argument was that Smoltze, Richmond & Co. were the real creditors of defendant for these goods, and that plaintiffs had no right of action against him.

From the evidence of Mr. Pereira, it appears that when the goods were ordered by defendant the manner of payment was to be arranged at home.

The arrangement made in pursuance of this appears to have been that Smoltze, Richmond & Co. were to open a credit in favour of defendant and were to accept bills drawn on them by plaintiffs to recover the cost of the goods sold; all shipping documents to be sent to Smoltze, Richmond & Co., the latter demanding letters of lien from defendant for all goods sent to him under the agreement. The goods, the price of which is now claimed, were supplied by plaintiffs on bills for the amount being accepted by Smoltze, Richmond & Co., to whom the shipping documents were sent. The bills at maturity were dishonoured and a protest of the fact was duly made, the bills and protest being tendered in evidence.

According to Benjamin (Sale of Personal Property, p. 713, Library Edition,) "the payment for goods may by the contract be agreed to take effect in a negotiable security, as in a promissory note or Bill of Exchange, and the agreement may be that the payment thus made is absolute or conditional. In the absence of any agreement express or implied, to the contrary, a payment of this kind is always understood to be conditional, the vendor's right to the price reviving on non-payment of the security. But if a dispute arise as to the intention of the parties, the question is one of fact for the jury. The intention to take a bill in payment for goods sold must be clearly shown and not deduced from ambiguous expressions such as that the bill was taken "in payment" for the goods, or "in discharge" of the price." The authorities in support of the rule that in the absence of stipulation to the contrary the negotiable security is only considered to be a conditional payment defeasible on the dishonour of the security, need not be reviewed as there is no conflict on the point."

And in my opinion the rule holds goods whether the bill be by the vendee himself or by some other party on his behalf whose acceptances the vendor has agreed to take. The fact that defendants gave Smoltze, Richmond & Co. letters of lien on the goods would not, in my opinion, affect his liability to pay the vendor of the goods on the dishonour of the bills accepted by Smoltze, Richmond & Co.

And I think it might be gathered from the evidence given by Mr. H. H. Laurence, barrister-at-law, the attorney in this colony of the Official trustee in the bankruptcy of Smoltze, Richmond & Co., that the above principles have been recognized by his principal so far as payment for the goods, the subject of this action is concerned.

Mr. Laurence, in his examination-in-chief, said "I am the attorney of A. F. Whinney, the trustee in bankruptcy of Smoltze, Richmond & Co. I know Smoltze, Richmond & Co. had business relations in this colony with W. H. McGowan & Co." "I have abandoned the claim I made on W. H. McGowan & Co. I have no claim on behalf of the trustee of Smoltze, Richmond & Co. against W. H. McGowan & Co., and I have informed Mr. Dargan, the attorney of W. H. McGowan so."

Cross-examined by Mr. Dargan, the witness says:—"In my opinion the trustee in bankruptcy of Smoltze, Richmond & Co. had no claim against W. H. McGowan & Co. for the payment of these acceptances. I have mentioned to you I was taking no proceedings. I have told Mr. Whinney he had no claim and he seems to adopt my view. He has not instructed me to inform W. H. McGowan he has abandoned the claim."

But as a matter of fact, Mr. Laurence, as attorney of the official trustee, has, he declares, abandoned the claim and in so doing it is to be presumed he is acting within his powers, and I doubt much whether any Court, in face of this declaration, would,—presuming plaintiffs were paid what they sue for,—entertain any claim by the official trustee to pay the amount over again to him. The money is due either to the official trustee or to plaintiffs, and must be paid to one or the other unless it is suggested that under the circumstances the defendants are to escape payment altogether and thus get the goods for nothing. It would have been better and have shown clearly his bona fides had the defendant, being in doubt whom to pay, interpleaded and paid the money into Court until the rights of the contending parties, if there actually was contention, had been decided. It cannot, however, be said here there was more than one party claiming for we have it authoritatively declared by a person competent to do so that the only other party who ought to be considered in the matter had abandoned his claim. It seems to me that this declaration alone, irrespective of the other points involved, was sufficient to justify defendant, either in paying the plaintiffs or coming to a settlement with them.

Towards the end of plaintiffs' case and during the examination of Mr. Pereira, counsel for plaintiffs tendered in evidence the power of attorney referred to in the endorsement on the claim and by virtue of which this action was brought. Counsel for defendants objected to this document on the ground that there was no declaration annexed thereto as required by section 28 of Ordinance No. 20 of 1893. I allowed the document to be put in on the ground that no objection had been taken by defendant to the representative capacity of the plaintiffs, and that the document had been duly recorded. On consideration, however, I am of opinion the document was not admissible, because of the absence of the declaration and the fact that it had been recorded under the Registrar's Ordinance of 1880 does not make it so. The order admitting it, therefore, must be cancelled. This, however, will in no way effect the right to bring this action for the reason that defendant should have objected to the representative capacity of plaintiff in his pleadings according to Rule 6 of Order 19, and not having done so he must, under the Rules of Court, be taken to have admitted it. The rejection of this document, therefore, in no way affects the issue. There was no necessity to put it in—it was not required to prove anything; the representative capacity of plaintiff having been admitted. No witnesses were called for the defence. I am of opinion that defendant is indebted to the plaintiffs in the sum claimed, less the amount charged for protesting the Bills of Exchange, $5 64, i.e. to say $653 22, and I accordingly give judgment for that sum with costs.

R. A. SWAN, Actg. J.

HENRY CARREIRO and WILLIAM CARREIRO

versus

ABEL MARIA DA SILVA.

This is an action to recover from the defendant the sum of $1,000 as damages and pecuniary compensation for loss sustained by plaintiffs, by reason of the defendant, by his servant, wrongfully levying on their goods.

From the facts elicited by the evidence, it appears that plaintiffs carried on business together as shop-keepers on lot 73, at the corner of Breda and Leopold Streets, in Georgetown.

On the 2nd April, 1902, a Marshal (Grannum) levied on the money, stock-in-trade, goods and effects of plaintiffs at lot 73, as above, in execution of a judgment obtained by defendant against Francisco da Silva Serrao, for the sums of $200 52 and $27 69 costs.

The instructions to levy were given by one Antonio Gonsalves, a clerk in the employ of defendant, and are as follows:—

"The Registrar is instructed to levy on the goods that may be pointed out by Antonio Gonsalves.

(Signed) A. M. Da Silva,
per Antonio Gonsalves,

2nd April, 1902."

The Marshal, accompanied by Gonsalves and some porters in the employ of defendant, proceeded to plaintiffs' shop on the same day and levied on their stock-in-trade. While the levy was proceeding one of the plaintiffs remonstrated with the Marshal and pointed out to him that neither the goods nor the shop belonged to Serrao, but were the property of him and his brother. Notwithstanding this remonstrance the Marshal continued the levy on being told to do so by Gonsalves. All these facts are clearly proved and defendant calls no witnesses to contradict them.

Plaintiffs allege that the goods and money levied on were worth over $200 and that by this levy they "have been deprived of the means of carrying on their business, lost the profits they would have made, and otherwise suffered damage."

In defence, defendant admitted the plaintiffs were shop-keepers but denied that they carried on business at lot 73, Breda Street. The wrongful levy by defendant by his servant or agent on goods, etc., of plaintiffs is also denied. He admits that "certain goods, the property of the said Francisco da Silva Serrao, on which he, the defendant, had levied, were sold at execution on the 10th and 21st days of April, 1902, after advertisement in the Official Gazette."

Defendant further denies "the value of the stock-in-trade was over $200, but only $25 48, and declares that such stock-in-trade was not the bona fide property of the plaintiffs."

It is to be noted here that $25 48 was the amount realized by the sale of the goods levied on in satisfaction of the debt due by Serrao to defendant. That is to say, defendant values plaintiffs' stock at the same amount as he says these goods fetched at execution sale. He does not explain why he applies this standard to value plaintiffs' stock. As a matter of fact no goods belonging to Serrao were levied on at the instance of defendant on 2nd April, and the goods which he says were sold at execution sale, after due advertisement, on 10th and 21st days of April were the property of the plaintiffs, levied on under a warrant or sentence against Serrao. Serrao never had anything to do with these goods nor the shop in which they were levied on.

Defendant further alleges that plaintiffs are estopped from maintaining this action, their remedy being "by way of interpleader to the sale of the said goods at execution."

As I have said above, the facts of the levy as set forth above are not really disputed. The Acting Solicitor General, in addressing the Court for defendant, said:—"No useful purpose to be served in discussing whether goods were plaintiffs' or Serrao's. The matter does not appear to be in serious dispute."

The Solicitor General contends that plaintiff was bound to interplead, and that not having done so he is estopped from bringing this action. He argues that oppositions to sale at execution of goods levied on having been abolished by the repeal of the Manner of Proceeding Ordinance No. 5 of 1865, the Rules of Court as to Interpleader take their place, and that the same consequences flow from the failure to interplead as would have flowed from the failure to oppose under the old law. No authority is quoted for this contention and I cannot agree to it. Whatever may have been the result to a claimant of failing to oppose a sale of moveables at execution before the present rules came into force, I am quite clear that the result of failure to interplead cannot be considered as leading to similar results. Interpleader is introduced from English law, and must be interpreted and explained by English decisions so far as they can be made to apply to local cases of a similar nature. The Rules of Court of 1901 contain no provisions for granting damages in cases of unlawful or wrongful levy on movable property and I am of opinion that an action for damages will lie although the owner of the goods has failed to claim them by way of interpleader. But in ruling thus I consider that the failure to interplead should be carefully considered in estimating the amount of damages to be awarded for the wrong done, for had the goods been claimed under the rules a locus penitentiar would have been open to the judgment creditor affording him an opportunity of making restitution without increasing the damages by continuing the wrong.

The learned Solicitor General also contends that there is nothing to show that Gonsalves was authorized to levy on any property but that of Serrao, and that it must be shown that defendant knew Gonsalves was going to levy on plaintiffs' property and knew it when he received the proceeds. Gonsalves was clerk to defendant; he gave and signed the instructions to levy for A. M. da Silva. Those instructions said that he Gonsalves was to point out the property to be levied on to the marshal, and as a matter of fact he did point out the goods. Henry Caldeira pointed out to defendant the wrong done to him and defendant referred him to Gonsalves for satisfaction, thus, in my opinion, recognising his servant's act. Moreover defendant's book-keeper drew from the Registrar's Office the proceeds of the sale at execution after he, the defendant, had been informed of the wrongful levy. All these circumstances tend to show that Gonsalves was acting with defendants' knowledge and sanction, was his agent in fact, and that he is in law liable for the acts of such agent. Counsel has asked why the plaintiffs did not call defendant and Gonsalves to prove that the levy was authorised by defendant. But I think it may well be asked why defendant has not given evidence on his own behalf to obviate by his testimony the inference which naturally arises from the circumstances mentioned above.

There can be no doubt from the evidence a great and serious injury has been inflicted on the plaintiffs. Gonsalves must have known when pointing out plaintiffs' goods to the Marshal as those on which he was to levy that they belonged to plaintiffs; only a short time before he had been to the shop and taken stock of the goods in it. A great part of the stock in the shop had been bought from defendant, and the latter had no judgment or sentence against the plaintiffs. In the absence of all explanation on the part of defendant, the levy was a most wanton and unprovoked outrage, for which exemplary damages might properly be demanded and awarded.

Plaintiffs say the stock and money levied on amounted to over $200. Defendant points to the amount realized by the sale at execution, about $25, as showing the stock could not have been of the value alleged. The fact that the goods realized only $25 at the sale is no proof to my mind that the stock was of less value than that stated by plaintiffs for it is a matter of common knowledge that at a forced sale goods frequently fetch less than a tithe of their real value and that was probably so in this case. It is alleged that at the sale Gonsalves bought a great part of the stock.

Taking all the circumstances into consideration, the value of the stock, the loss of business, as well as the fact in defendant's favour that he was not afforded an opportunity of restitution by plaintiffs' failing to interplead, I feel that I cannot award the plaintiffs less than $350 and I therefore give judgment in their favour for that amount with costs. But for the fact of plaintiffs' not having interpleaded I should have been inclined to award them a much greater amount in compensation for what I cannot help thinking a most unwarrantable and unjustifiable act committed by the defendant through his servant Gonsalves.

HIS Excellency the Governor directs the publication, for general information, of the following despatch received from the Secretary of State for the Colonies, with its enclosures, on the question of nationality in the Bay Islands of Honduras.

By Command,

A. M. ASHMORE,
Government Secretary.

Downing Street,
25th June, 1902.

SIR,—I have the honour to transmit to you for your consideration and for such action as you may deem necessary a copy of an extract from a letter received from the Foreign Office, together with a copy of a memorandum referred to therein, on the question of nationality in the Bay Islands of Honduras.

I have, etc.
(Sgd.) J. CHAMBERLAIN.

Governor
SIR J. A. SWETTENHAM, K.C.M.G.

EXTRACT FROM A LETTER FROM THE FOREIGN OFFICE TO THE COLONIAL OFFICE, DATED JUNE 9TH, 1902.

In his despatch No. 48 Mr. Paget forwards a Memorandum by Mr. Koenemann on the question of nationality in the Bay Islands. In this Memorandum Mr. Koenemann points out that British subjects who had settled in the Islands previous to their cession to Honduras and who still reside there, have become Honduran citizens, and that consequently their children are also citizens of Honduras. He adds that such persons frequently visit a British colony and there obtain passports or other papers recognizing them as British subjects, and that such papers are invalid, although they are frequently treated as valid by Honduran officials through ignorance. The inconvenience of such a practice is obvious, and I am to suggest that the authorities in the British West Indian Colonies should be requested to be careful in future relative to the issue of passports or other documents in such cases.

MEMORANDUM.

Copy.

In view of the many complaints brought by inhabitants of the Bay Islands against Honduran Officials and of the fact that the complaints accompany their statements with a claim to British Nationality, some remarks as to the various classes in the Bay Islands by whom this Nationality is claimed may be found useful.

Exclusive of the few persons of Spanish descent the inhabitants of the Bay Islands may be divided into three classes.

I. British subjects who had settled in the Islands previous to their cession by the Treaty of 1860, and who still reside there.

II. The children of the above-mentioned settlers born subsequent to the Treaty of 1860

III. British subjects who have settled in the Island since the Treaty of 1860.

Inhabitants coming under Class I, although formerly British subjects, have, according to the Treaty, lost their British Nationality and become Honduran Citizens by not having taken advantage of the stipulation to leave the Islands within a reasonable time.

Consequently also Class II, their children, are Honduran Citizens.

This class, however, calls for sub-division:—

a. Those persons who have constantly resided on the Islands.

b. Those who have visited a British colony—usually the one from which their parents originally came—and have their obtained papers from the Colonial Authorities recognising them as British subjects. In many cases these are owners of vessels flying the British flag and registered in a British colony.

This appears to be an abnormal position for there seems no doubt that according to a strict interpretation of the Treaty those persons are born Honduran Citizens but nevertheless are recognized as British subjects and have papers issued to them by the British Colonial Authorities.

It may be said that few if any of them have fulfilled the conditions requisite for naturalization in a British colony and therefore although they may produce passports, &c., from the Colonial Authorities, their claim to British Nationality would, upon examination, be found invalid. Most of the inhabitants of the Bay Islands are fully aware of this fact but notwithstanding it is their almost invariable practice to claim that they are British subjects and through ignorance of the stipulations of the Treaty this claim is in many instances admitted by the Honduran local authorities.

As regards Class III British subjects who have settled in the Islands since the Treaty of 1860, the British Nationality of these latter cannot be called in question.

(Sgd.) E. KOENEMANN.

18th July, 1902.

THE following Bill, which will be read a first time at the next Meeting of the Governor and Court of Policy, is hereby published for general information.

By Command,

A. M. ASHMORE,
Government Secretary.

A BILL ENTITLED AN ORDINANCE TO PROVIDE FOR CERTAIN MATTERS RELATING TO THE INCLUSION IN THE CITY OF GEORGETOWN, OF THE DISTRICT KNOWN AS WORTMANVILLE.

WHEREAS the Mayor and Town Council of Georgetown, with the approval of the Governor-in-Council did, by a resolution passed on the 12th day of May, 1902, extend the limits of Ward No. 10, Werk-en-Rust Ward, as from the 1st day of July, 1902, so as to include therein the district known as Wortmanville, and a part of the Lodge Village, as shewn on a plan, by Luke M. Hill, Town Superintendent, dated 20th January, 1902, attached to the said resolution.

And whereas it is necessary to make provision for the levying of a special rate to defray special expenditure in connection with the improvement of the district so included, and for other matters relating thereto.

Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of British Guiana with the advice and consent of the Court of Policy thereof as follows:—

Short title and construction.

1. This Ordinance may be cited as the Georgetown Town Council (Wortmanville) Ordinance, 1902, and this Ordinance and the Georgetown Town Council Ordinance, 1898, hereinafter referred to as the Principal Ordinance, shall be read and construed together as one Ordinance.

Meaning of " Wortman-
ville Section."

2. For the purposes of this Ordinance the term " Wortmanville Section " means that part of the Werk-en-Rust Ward referred to in the resolution hereinbefore mentioned and bounded as follows:—

On the East by the road leading to Le Repentir Cemetery between Hadfield Street and Princes Street, in continuation of the Vlissengen Avenue ;

On the West by the Eastern boundary of Louisa Row ;

On the North by the trench running through the centre of the Eastern portion of Hadfield Street ;

On the South by the Werk-en-Rust Main Draining Trench, on the North side of Princes Street.

3. (1.) The Council shall, as soon as practicable, prepare a plan of the Wortmanville Section on a scale of not less than one inch to one hundred feet shewing the roads, streets, drains and trenches as they exist, and any new or extended roads, streets, drains, and trenches which the Council propose to make; and also the lots in the said section with their numbers.

Preparations and deposit of plans.

(2.) The said plan shall be submitted to the Governor-in-Council for his approval and, when approved, shall be deposited as of record in the Registrar's Office of British Guiana.

4. (1.) The Council shall have power, by resolution to levy a special rate not exceeding one per cent per annum on all lots in the Wortmanville Section and the buildings thereon according to the appraised values thereof, respectively, until the sum of $13,500 to be expended on the improvement of the said section and the interest on such sum has been thereby raised.

Special rate.

(2.) Every resolution of the Council to levy such special rate shall be published in the Gazette and thereupon all Lots in the Wortmanville Section and the buildings thereon shall be liable and executable for such special rate; and the amount of such special rate shall be preferent and shall be recoverable in like manner, and to the same extent as taxes levied in pursuance of the Principal Ordinance, provided that the said special rate payable in respect of any Lot and the buildings thereon shall be paid to the Town Clerk along with and at the same time as the Town Tax or Taxes payable in respect of such Lot and the buildings thereon; and the Town Clerk shall not be compellable to receive payment of the one without the other.

(3.) Such special rate shall not be levied in respect of any part of the year 1902, but all Lots in the said Wortmanville Section shall be liable to and executable for a tax at the rate of $1\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. per annum for the half year ending 31st December, 1902, on their respective values as assessed, at the time of the coming into force of this Ordinance, under the provisions of the Public Health Ordinance, 1878.

(4.) Such last mentioned tax shall be paid on or before the 1st of September, 1902, and shall be preferent and recoverable in like manner as Town Taxes levied under the Principal Ordinance.

THIS 10TH DAY OF JULY, 1902.

MORRIS

versus

D'ORNELLAS.

This is an application for an order dismissing the above action for want of prosecution.

It appears that on the 20th May, 1902, the plaintiff issued a writ of summons against the defendant which was duly served, and on the 7th June, 1902, the defendant entered an appearance. W. D. Wilson, clerk of Mr. Dargan, barrister-at-law, swears that he served notice of defendant's appearance on the plaintiff's solicitor by leaving it on a desk in his office as neither the plaintiff's solicitor nor his clerk were in the office. Counter affidavits have been filed to show that the plaintiff's solicitor or his clerk were in the office during the whole of the 7th June, and that no such notice has been seen by them. By Order xviii r. 1 (b) the plaintiff must deliver his claim within ten days after the appearance has been entered and by Order xxv, rule 1 if the plaintiff does not deliver his claim within the time allowed for that purpose the defendant may apply to have the action dismissed for want of prosecution.

On the plaintiff's behalf it is stated they had no notice of the appearance and that even if the notice was left at the solicitor's office such service was not a good service. By Order xlviii r. 1 all pleadings, &c., shall be sufficiently served if left . . . at the address for service of the person to be served with any person resident at or belonging to such place. This rule is practically the same in this respect as R. H. T. 1853, Sec. 161. Under that rule it has been held that it is not a sufficient service to put the document under the door, (Strutton v. Hawks, 3 Dowl. 25,) or to leave document in defendant's apartments when neither defendant nor any person are there, (Chaffers v. Glozer, 5 Dowl. 81). In the notes in the annual Practice to Order lxvii r. 2, which is our Order xlviii r. 1, it is stated that leaving a summons under O. 14 in a letter box at the address for service is not good service within this rule, (Jiminez v. Owen, W. N. (S3) 232.) The same has been held with regard to a notice of motion (Leigh v. Stogdon, 99 L. P. Jo. 359). The note goes on that where more than one call has been made at the address for service without finding any one there and thereupon the document has been placed in the letter box and there is reason to believe it has been duly received the practise master will usually, on these facts appearing on affidavit, allow such service to be good. In this case it appears the clerk only went once and finding no one there left the notice in the office, and there is no reason shown to believe it has been received. I cannot therefore hold that the service was a good one, the notice was not left with any person resident at or belonging to the place given as the address for service.

The failure to give notice of appearance does not, however, in my opinion make the appearance void, it is at most an irregularity the Court has power to condone under Order 41, r. 1, Pretty v. Daniel, 34 C. D. 172.

I certainly consider that the plaintiff has not been diligent in the matter. At the hearing on the 30th June, Counsel for the plaintiff admitted that the solicitor for the plaintiff knew "the week before" "last" that an appearance had been entered but no steps were taken in the matter, and even at the hearing the claim was not ready.

I think the justice of this matter will be met if I order the plaintiff to file his claim before the 19th of July, instant. I therefore order the plaintiff to file his claim on or before the 19th July, and I hereby under Order xlv r. 2 grant him leave so to do. The costs of this application to be costs in the cause.

A. V. LUCIE SMITH, Actg. C. J.

DINZEY

versus

GASKIN.

The plaintiff in this action alleges that he acted as solicitor for the defendant and claims from him $195 47, the amount of two taxed bills of costs. The defendant alleges that he never employed the plaintiff but that his agreement was with Mr. Farnum, barrister-at-law, who undertook to defend the suit without charging any retaining fee or any costs if he the defendant was unsuccessful, and that Mr. Farnum employed the plaintiff. The plaintiff denies this and says that the defendant employed him. There is a direct conflict of testimony on this point. The defendant however, signed a power ad lites in favour of the plaintiff, and also in entering an appearance stated that he appeared by his "solicitor Robert Cadman Victor Dinzey." There appears to have been some misunderstanding as to what costs were to be paid by defendant. The plaintiff and Mr. Farnum, both swear they only agreed not to charge a retaining fee, the defendant swears they agreed not to charge any costs at all. The onus of proof is on the defendant, there appears to be so much doubt in the matter that I cannot say he has proved his case. I am also of opinion that section 13, of the Legal Practitioners Regulation Ordinance, 1897, which requires all special agreements between a barrister or solicitor and his client to be in writing must be taken to apply to both parties and therefore any special agreement between a client and his solicitor that the solicitor should give his professional services without charging any costs if his client was unsuccessful must be in writing.

For these reasons there must be judgment for the plaintiff for the amount claimed less $5 admitted by the plaintiff to have been received by him with costs.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

IN INSOLVENCY.

THIS 10TH DAY OF JULY, 1902.

In re MANOEL GONSALVES

Ex parte MANOEL DE SOUZA.

This is an application by Manoel de Souza, to this Court to issue directions to the Assignee directing him not to sell the cottage situate on east half lots 38 and 39, Plantation Triumph, taken possession of by the Assignee as belonging to the estate of the debtor but to deliver the cottage to the applicant.

It appears that the applicant by virtue of a writ of execution dated 7th March, 1902, and issued out of the Magistrate's Court, levied upon the cottage as movable property belonging to the debtor and he became the purchaser thereof at the execution sale held on the 14th March, 1902. It does not appear that the applicant ever got possession of the cottage but the debtor still continued to live there. Both the land and the cottage were taken possession of by the assignee and were advertised to be sold as belonging to the estate of the insolvent. Under section 2 of Ordinance 12 of 1897, every house belonging to the owner of the land on which it stands shall be dealt with as immoveable property and executable accordingly. If the debtor was the owner of the land therefore the cottage could not be sold under a writ of execution issued from the Magistrate's Court, and the sale at execution would be void and no title would pass thereunder to the applicant.

It appears that the debtor was one of the original proprietors of Pln. Triumph, which plantation was subsequently taken over by the Government and sold out in lots. The debtor purchased the land on which the cottage stands and he says he paid a clerk in the Village Office $100: which money does not appear to have reached the Government. He therefore had to purchase again from the Lands Department and he paid that department $60 for the land, but he has not received a transport as he has not paid the cost of such transport. It is said the $60 was given the debtor by his children to purchase the land, and the land does not therefore belong to the insolvent. The debtor, in his evidence, states that he went to the Land Department and purchased, he never said anything about his children, and that he has been always in possession. He further states that his children Francis, John and Manoel gave him the money to pay the Land Department. Francis and John are in Trinidad, and Manoel is married and lives "somewhere else." It is clear from his evidence, that the children did not buy the land, they gave him the money to buy it with for himself. He says my sons buy it and give it me. There can be no doubt the land belonged to the insolvent. He has not the legal title but he is the beneficial owner. The land is to be sold at the same time as the cottage, that is to say the land with all the buildings thereon is to be sold, and it does not appear that any one has claimed the land or taken any steps to prevent its sale.

It is contended that the word "owner" in the Ordinance means the person having the legal title and that the Ordinance does not affect this case as the legal title to the land is in the Government. I think if the legislature had intended by the word "owner" to mean only the holder of the legal title they would have said so. In the absence of anything to show that was the intention of the legislature, I can only give to the word "owner," its ordinary signification which I consider includes the beneficial or real owner. It is very well-known that it is a common practice not to transport village lots but only to make a transfer in the village books. Whether such a practice is consistent with the law or what is its effect it is not for me to express an opinion in this matter but I have no doubt that the person to whom such land has been transferred is the owner within the meaning of the Ordinance although he has no legal title. I consider the sale at execution was illegal and void from the beginning and that the applicants therefore cannot succeed in this application.

I dismiss this application with costs.

A. V. LUCIE SMITH, Actg. C. J.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

THIS 18TH DAY OF JULY, 1902.

DEMERARA ELECTRIC COY., LTD., Appellants,

versus

J. COX, Respondent.

This is an appeal against the decision of Mr. S. G. T. Bourke, acting Assistant Police Magistrate of Georgetown, awarding the respondent, plaintiff in the Court below, $50 and costs, for damage done to his cab, &c., by an electric car, the property of appellants.

The claim in the Court below on which the Magistrate adjudicated was as follows:—

"(1). That the defendant failed to maintain the rails of their tramway at Broad Street, Georgetown, on 12th day of March, 1902, in such a manner so that the uppermost surface of the said rail should be on a level with the said street as it was their duty to do.

(2). That the wheel of the plaintiff's cab while being driven over the said street through the defective condition of the said rail as aforesaid became jammed against the said rail.

(3). That while the plaintiff cab was so jammed and lawfully on the said street the defendants' servant so negligently and unskillfully drove and managed one of the defendants' tram cars that the said tram car was driven, forced and struck against the plaintiff's said cab whereby the plaintiff who was then driving the said cab was thrown therefrom and injured and suffered great pain of body and mind, and the said cab and harness were greatly damaged and the plaintiff has been deprived of the use of the said cab from the 13th to the 21st instant, and has thereby sustained great loss and has incurred expense in repairing the said cab and harness, &c. The plaintiff claims from the defendants' the sum of $100, as damages in respect of the aforesaid injuries suffered by him and the expense incurred and loss sustained as aforesaid."

The reasons for appeal are as follows:—

"(1) That the decision is erroneous in point of law, because:—

(a). It was proved that the collision in respect of which the plaintiff claimed was due to the plaintiff's horse and cab being driven along or too near to the tract of the defendants' tramway to which tract the defendants had a right as against the plaintiff's cab.

(b). It was the duty of the plaintiff to have kept his horse and cab clear of the tract and car of the defendant.

(c). The Magistrate was wrong in holding that the plaintiff under the circumstances disclosed would of "have" violated the rule of the road in pulling to the right.

(d). No negligence whatever on the part of the defendants was proved or could be inferred.

(e). If negligence of any kind was proved the evidence clearly established such negligence on the part of the plaintiff leading or contributing to the collision as this entitled him to recover (? disentitled him to recover).

(2). That the decision is altogether unwarranted by the evidence, in like manner as, if the case had been tried by a jury, there would not have been sufficient evidence to sustain a verdict (amongst other things) because

(a). There was no evidence of negligence or default on the part of the defendants but on the contrary it was proved that there was no negligence or default whatever on their part.

(b). It was proved that the defendants had done all that they could do and that ought to have been done by them to give notice to the plaintiff of the approach of their car and to avoid the collision.

(c). It was proved that the collision was due to the plaintiff's having unlawfully and negligently placed and kept his horse and cab on or near the tract of the defendants' while the latter was passing along the tract.

(d). It was proved that the plaintiff could have pulled his horse and cab out of the way of the car and out of danger and thus avoided the collision.

(e). It was proved that as far as regards the defendants' the collision was an unavoidable accident.

(f). It was proved that the plaintiff was guilty of negligence which directly caused and contributed to the accident."

The defendants' reason for appeal are numerous, but some of those under the 2nd heading appear to be simple repetitions, differently worded, of others under the first heading. Before dealing with the facts of this case it may be as well to consider the relative rights and duties of the public generally and the defendant Company, in respect of the roads over which the tram cars run:—

By section 6 of the Regulations respecting the use of cars or carriages on Tramways, approved by the Governor and Court of Policy on 14th March, 1901, it is enacted:

"Cars and carriages in progress on any line shall have a right to the tracks as against any person, carriage, vehicle or encumbrance put, driven or being thereon, and if any person shall wilfully obstruct the said tracks, or wilfully obstruct or prevent the progress of such cars or carriages, or wilfully remain or keep any vehicle on the said tracks, in the way of any car or carriage, if there shall be an opportunity to turn off the same, he shall for every such offence be liable to a penalty not exceeding twenty-five dollars."

The use of the word "wilfully" in this section must be carefully noted as well as the qualifying phrase "if there shall be an opportunity to turn off the same." By this regulation it is the duty of all persons to leave the track clear for the free running of the cars, but this in no way confers on the tramway Company an exclusive right to the use of the road, nor empowers them to drive over or through any obstacle that may be opposed to them. "Were this not so," as said by Parke, B. in Davis v. Mann:—"A man might justify the driving over goods left on a public highway, or even over a man lying asleep there, or the purposely running against a carriage going on the wrong side of the road."

The right conferred on the appellants by the section quoted, does not relieve them of the necessity of exercising due care and caution in driving their cars. They are not to proceed recklessly, but are bound to keep a good look out ahead at all times, and to give warning by effective signals to any vehicle or passenger who seems to be in a situation of danger.

On the other hand it is the duty of the public to leave the line clear for the running of the tramcars, and any wilful neglect on their part to do so subjects them to a penalty.—It is to be remembered that tram cars run along fixed lines and that the ordinary rule of the road as to turning to the right or left on meeting or overtaking other vehicles or passengers does not apply to them. As laid down by Beven on negligence (Library Edition, page 960) "The rule of the road has to be modified in its application to tramcars, which cannot get out of the way as they move only along the rails laid down for them. In America it has been laid down that carriages meeting them should turn to that side which appears to be the safest without regard to the usual rule."

And I am of opinion that the principle thus laid down in America is applicable here and would justify the driver of a vehicle turning to the safest side in order to avoid collision with a tram car, or, indeed, any other vehicle. The rule of the road is recognised for the purpose of regulating traffic and of avoiding accidents. It is sufficiently elastic to permit persons going to the wrong side to prevent a collision which a rigid adherence to the rule would inevitably bring about. If therefore the collision in this case could have been prevented by the respondent drawing over to the right of the road I am of opinion that he ought to have done so—rule of the road notwithstanding—and the Electric Company would not be liable for damages resulting from his neglect in this respect. "A person driving a carriage is not bound to keep on 'his own' side of the road; but if he does not, he must use more care, and keep a better look out, to avoid collision, than would be otherwise necessary" (Pluckwell v. Wilson, 5 C. and P. 375.) The question is, however, whether the plaintiff could have gone to the right with safety—there is no direct evidence to show he might have done so—and the facts as to this must be considered along with the other issues involved.

From the evidence given before the magistrate it would appear that plaintiff in the Court below was, about 8.10 p.m. on March 12th driving his cab, in which were two passengers, L. L. Fernandes and J. Teixeira, from Lying Street down Broad Street toward Charles Street. While going down Broad Street the off fore wheel of the cab got jammed in the line and for a few seconds could not be extricated. Plaintiff tried his best to get his cab clear and after a time succeeded. In the meanwhile a tram car was coming along in a direction opposite to that the cab was going. Plaintiff shouted out to warn the car, Fernandes, one of the passengers and other people did the same. The cab had proceeded till it could go no further on account of a letter box by the side of the road. The car came on and ran into the cab causing the damage complained of. Both passengers jumped out of the cab immediately before the collision, while the cabman himself was knocked off the box. At the time of the collision there is evidence that the cab had both lamps lit and that the tram car was also lighted up. The plaintiff says that there was no time for him to cross over to the right; if he had attempted to do so he would have been killed, and that he could not get out of the way of the tramcar because of the pillar box at the side of the road. George Somerset, a Police Constable, who was on duty at Broad Street Police Station on the night in question, said:—"I saw a tram car pass from west to east up Broad Street about 8.15 p.m. Before the car came opposite me there was a cab on the line going west. I heard shouts of "check" several times. The cabman was shouting. The car was coming all this time. The car came in contact with the cab. The cab was broken. The horse ran away. When I first heard the cries of "check" the car was to the west of Charles Street. The collision took place to the east of Charles Street. I cannot recognize the conductor. The car was No. 13. I had seen the car pass before. The cab was left by the side of the road till next morning. The cab drove on the left side of the road. I heard the wheels creaking against the rails."

In cross examination this witness said:—"When I first heard the cabman shout "check" the car was between Green and Charles Streets. Immediately the car crossed Green Street the cabman shouted check. The usual car-lights were burning. The gong sounded when the car was on Charles Street. The car did not slacken before it reached the cab. In my opinion the car was going at extra speed. The car stopped a distance off after it struck the cab. It went about two car lengths. I know the pillar box at the corner. It was immediately before the pillar box."

Mr. Fernandes, one of the two passengers in the cab gave evidence as to what occurred immediately before the collision. He says he and the other passenger jumped out of the cab to the left and made five or six steps when the cab and car came in contact. He declares that both lamps of the cab were alight and that he and the cabman and other people shouted, and that the car was sounding its gong. According to this witness, the cab wheel jammed about ten yards from the pillar box. The cabman flogged the horse but whether it was for the purpose of getting clear of the line or to pass the pillar box before the car came up is not clear.

Another police Constable Jordan, stated that he was upstairs at the Broad Street Station on night of 12th March. He says: "I heard a shouting of check and stop, loud voices, I ran outside. I saw a cab smashed up and a horse going down Charles Street. I ran after the horse and caught it. It was the shouts of "check" that caused me to come out. I was upstairs in a front room."

J. Teixeira, also a passenger in the cab says, among other things: "I saw the motor man in the car. I asked if he did not see the cab or hear the man shouting. He told me he saw the cab but thought it was not in the way, and that he thought there was a passenger in the cab who wanted the car."

For the defence several witnesses were called, the first being Mr. Brassington, who stated that he examined the tramway at the request of defendants and found the state of the road very good and well made up. He says:—"There was nothing to prevent in this road a cab, turning on any part that I examined. Even if the wheel was locked to the inside of a rail it only required a sharp turn even if the rail is exposed. There would be no danger of a properly attached wheel being wrenched off by such a turn. There was nothing which could cause the wheel to stick."

There is no evidence that experiments were really made to ascertain whether a cab like plaintiff's could turn sharply as described by Mr. Brassington, and against his opinion that there was nothing which could cause the wheel to stick, there is the positive and sworn testimony of several witnesses to the actual fact that the wheel of plaintiff's cab did jam against the rail and could not at once be cleared.

Martin Zorg, a superintendent in defendants' employ, gave evidence as to the condition of the road and the time it was repaired. He said the line was in accordance with the requirements of the rules and that a wheel could not get stuck. He admitted there was a groove inside the rail $\frac{3}{4}$ inch deep and $\frac{3}{4}$ inch wide for the car to run, and that if some of the "stuff" was gone a cab wheel might get in, but that a cab wheel could not get stuck at that part of the road.

D. M. Phillips, who was the driver of the car at the time of the collision also gave evidence. He says:—

"On that day" (March 12th), I was driving a car along Broad Street, going from west to east. It was eight five p.m. about. Going up the street I saw a light. One light. It was about eight feet to the right of the track. I saw it first at the corner of Saffron Street. This light kept on the right. I went on. I saw the light several times afterwards. At first I was going at the rate of about 8 or 9 miles an hour. I put on my break the west side of Charles Street. I had passed Green Street and I was about three lengths west of Charles Street, when I put my break on. All the car lights were burning. Just before I put on my break I was ringing my gong to warn people at the crossings. I rang the gong several times. I rang till I got to Charles Street. I stopped ringing my gong before crossing Charles Street. I was looking ahead. I saw nothing on the line until the head light of the car showed me a cab wheel. I am not sure it was inside or outside the line, but it was too near to avoid a collision. There is a pillar box at the corner. The cab and car struck about fifteen feet east of the pillar box. I never noticed the horse. I saw the pillar box, and the cab wheel and the man in the cab. I saw the off side wheel of the cab. The light on the off side of the cab was not lit. After the collision I saw the rear side lamp was lit. At the time of the collision the car was going about six miles per hour. I heard a voice shouting "Hi! Hi!!" I heard this when the car was about a length and a half from the cab. I think now the shouting came from the cab. I did not think so at the time. I thought it was some one who wanted to join the car. I intended to stop for the supposed passenger. I started at the shout to put on the break. I had eased the break off a bit. I had no intention of stopping till I heard the shouting which was just as I was crossing Charles Street. From the time I heard the shouting there was no possibility to stop the car in time to save the collision. I did not run into the cab purposely. It was a length and a half off the cab. In cross-examination witness said "I saw the cabman on the box of the cab. . . . I was occupied in checking the car after I saw the wheel of the cab. After the collision Mr. Teixeira asked me my name and number. I told him my name and the number of the car. I said I heard a shout and that I thought it was a passenger who wanted to get in the car. I heard the shout and saw the wheel about the same time. I know the pillar box. I know there is no room for a trap to pass if a car is there at the same time. When I saw the light first I thought it was a bicycle light. When I got near I lost sight of the light. At the rate I was going when I began the crossing of Charles Street if I had put on the break hard I could have stopped the car in its own length. I took the break off when I could see across Charles Street. When I eased the break I had no idea there was anything in the way. I can see about 40 feet ahead of the car at night. . . . I only heard one voice shouting. As I heard the shout I put on the break and cut off the motor power, &c., &c."

E. C. Phillips, who was a passenger in the car at the time of collision, also gave evidence. He declares * * * "Before we got to Charles Street the motor man, three car lengths off, put on the break and rang his bell. The car slowed down. The car was still going slow when the accident happened. I heard a shout of Hi! Hi!! Stop! Stop!! just before we got to Charles Street. It was after the break was put on and the gong rung. As I heard the shout I was alarmed, I looked. I saw two men. I saw no cab before the collision. I saw one light. It was clear of the track right hand side of us. I could not see what the light was. I saw the position of the cab after the collision. The cab was about a yard from the pillar box. The body of the cab was on the grass."

Cross-examined * * * "I was on the left hand side of the car, second seat from the last. * * * I was alarmed. I was frightened with the shouts. * * * The motor man, after putting on the break before reaching Charles Street, never took it off."

Re-examined: "There would not have been time after the shouting was heard for the driver to have stopped the car,"—and yet witness says he heard the shouts before the car got to Charles Street; that the break was on and never taken off again, and the motorman says at the rate he was going when he crossed Charles Street he could have stopped the car in its own length. Moreover the latter says he took off the break when he crossed Charles Street as everything was clear and he put on the break again hard when he heard the shouting and that he heard the shouting and saw the wheel of the cab at the same time.

Edwin Cheffers, who describes himself as a lamp inspector in the employ of defendants, stated that he was in the car at the time of the accident, and that when it occurred the break was on and the car going slow. He heard no shouts. It does not appear why this man did not hear shouts which the motor man admits hearing, and which alarmed E. C. Phillips before the car got to Charles Street. He is possibly hard of hearing.

Mr. Cameron, the Solicitor, who appeared on behalf of the Electric Company, Ltd., to support this appeal argued at considerable length that had this action been tried by a judge and jury, it would have been the duty of the judge after hearing the evidence to withdraw the case from the jury on the ground that there was no evidence whatever of negligence recognizable by law on the part of appellants, and that if there was negligence at all leading to the accident it was negligence on the part of respondent, which disentitled him to recover.

In this matter the magistrate performed the functions not only of judge but jury. It was for him as judge to say whether there was any evidence of negligence either by appellants or respondents, and if he found there was such evidence he would go further and declare what was the effect of the same. In this case he has found that there was no negligence on the part of the respondent contributing to the collision, and on the other hand he says: "I have come to the conclusion that the motor man was to blame for not stopping his car when he heard the shouting knowing as he did that something was on the road ahead of him and that the passage was narrow and dangerous, and that the plaintiff was not guilty of contributory negligence." The magistrate therefore awarded the plaintiff—respondent here—$50 and costs.

I have carefully scrutinized the evidence in this matter as it appears on the copy of the record sent up and I have considered thoroughly the argument of the able solicitor who represented appellants, but I am unable to discover anything in either which would justify me in quashing the decision of the Court below.

In the first place even presuming for the purposes of argument that respondent was guilty of negligence, it does not of necessity follow that he would be precluded from recovering damages for an injury caused by another which the latter could have avoided notwithstanding such negligence. Actions for negligence have frequently occupied the attention of the higher Courts in England and in no class of cases probably has there been so much difficulty in settling what the law on the subject really is. Some judges appear to have held that any negligence on the part of a plaintiff which conduced ultimately to the injury complained of would disentitle him to recover damages. Others again have held that unless the plaintiff's negligence was the proximate cause of the injury he would have a right to recover as against another who notwithstanding such negligence might by proper care and precaution have avoided the damage. But whatever formerly may have been the differences among the Judges as to the effect of any negligence on the part of a plaintiff, the law on the point appears to be now tolerably well settled.

In Tuff v. Warman (5 C.B., N.S. 585) Wightman, J., in delivering the judgment of the Court said:—

"It appears to us that the proper question for the jury in this case, and indeed in all others of a like kind, is, whether the damage was occasioned entirely by the negligence or improper conduct of the defendant, or whether the plaintiff himself so far contributed to the misfortune by his own negligence or want of ordinary and common care and caution that, but for such negligence or want of ordinary care and caution on his part the misfortune would not have happened. In the first case, the plaintiff would be entitled to recover, in the latter not; as but for his own fault, the misfortune would not have happened.

Mere negligence or want of ordinary care and caution, would not however disentitle him to recover, unless it were such that, but for that negligence or want of ordinary care and caution, the misfortune could not have happened, nor if the defendant might by the exercise of care on his part have avoided the consequences of the neglect or carelessness of the plaintiff.

This appears to be the result deducible from the opinions of the judges in Butterfield v. Forrester, 11, East, 60, Bridge v. The Grand Junction Railway Co., 3 M and W, 246, Davies v. Mann, 10 M and W, 598, Dowell v. Genl. Stm. Navigation Co., 5, E and B, 206, E.C.L.R., vol. 85."

And again in Radley et al v. London and N.W. Railway Co. (1 Ap. Ca. 754, 46 L.J. Ex. 573) Lord Penzance said:—

"The law in these cases of negligence is, as was said in the Exchequer Chamber, perfectly well settled and beyond dispute. The first proposition is a general one, to this effect, 'that the plaintiff in an action for negligence cannot succeed if it is found by the jury that he has himself been guilty of any negligence or want of ordinary care which contributed to the accident.

But there is another proposition equally well established, and it is a qualification upon the first, namely, that though the plaintiff may have been guilty of negligence, and although that negligence may, in fact, have contributed to the accident, yet, if the defendant could in the result, by the exercise of ordinary care and diligence, have avoided the mischief which happened, the plaintiff's negligence will not excuse him. This proposition as one of law cannot be questioned." (Davies v. Mann 10 M. and W. 598 and Tuff v. Warman.)

It may be said that as the Magistrate has found as a fact that plaintiff was not guilty of contributory negligence there is no necessity for quoting these cases, but in face of the fact that by the regulations vehicles are bound to keep clear of tram cars, I have considered it advisable to show by decided cases that a breach of these regulations would not justify the driver of a tram car deliberately or by negligence running into another vehicle which might, however, negligently or unlawfully be opposed to his progress, when by due care and precaution he could avoid a collision.

As to negligence by appellants: it seems to me there was evidence in the case, which could properly be left to a jury, from which it might reasonably be inferred there was negligence on the part of the appellants causing the collision, and the Magistrate who combines both the functions of judge and jury has found, as a fact, that it was by appellants' negligence the collision occurred and the damage was caused. That being so, I see no reason for disturbing the decision appealed against which is accordingly affirmed with costs.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH
GUIANA.

LIMITED JURISDICTION.

THIS 21ST DAY OF JULY, 1902

versus

DEMERARA ELECTRIC COMPANY, LTD.

The plaintiff in this action seeks to recover from the defendant Company the sum of $367 60 as remuneration for his services in advising as to certain new buildings and machinery, &c., erected by the defendant Company and in superintending the erection thereof, being at the rate of five per cent. on the cost of such buildings, machinery, &c.

Two views of the plaintiff's case are put before the Court, first, that he agreed with the defendant Company to superintend and look after the then existing machinery for a monthly salary of $50, and that the advising as to the new machinery, buildings, &c., and superintending their erection was work outside of his agreement for which he claims remuneration on a quantum meruit; and secondly, that he made an agreement with Mr. Brothers, the manager of the Company that he would superintend the then existing machinery for a salary of $50 a month and should receive 5 per cent. of the cost of all new buildings, machinery, &c., erected under his superintendence, which agreement is binding on the Company. I may point out that the first view of the case is the one evidently contemplated by the pleadings in this matter.

The plaintiff was consulting engineer of the old Electric Light and Power Company which was taken over by the defendant Company. He received from the old Company a salary of $50 a month and had also received commissions on the erection of new machinery by them once at the rate of 3½ per cent. and twice at 5 per cent. on the cost. On the 9th January, 1900, the Secretary of the old Company wrote to Mr. Cahan, who was then the attorney in the colony of the defendant Company, stating that it would afford satisfaction to the directors if the defendant Company would retain the services of "the Company's consulting engineer, Mr. Seedorff." In this letter it is stated "Mr. Seedorff's retaining salary is $75 per month for which he has been in the habit of doing more than is usually expected of a consulting engineer and in fact acting almost as expert superintendent." Nothing further is said as to the plaintiff's remuneration. The plaintiff, in his evidence, states that he continued working for the defendant Company, as soon as they took over, that in January, 1900, he saw Mr. Brothers, the manager, who asked him if he could go on as consulting engineer and that he agreed to do so on the same terms as with the old Company which was $50 a month and extra pay for any erection of new machinery at the station; and that Mr. Brothers said he was writing his firm not to send out a man to do the work. It is remarkable that the only letter from Mr. Brothers to his firm not to send out a man is the letter of the 11th July, 1900, some six months after the alleged conversation. The plaintiff swears positively he never saw or spoke to Mr. Cahan about his employment and remuneration. Mr. Cahan on the other hand, swears that after receiving the letter asking that the plaintiff should be employed as consulting engineer, he saw Mr. Weber, the Chairman of the old Company, and spoke to him as to plaintiff's remuneration, and that he subsequently saw the plaintiff and told him under no circumstances would the directors of the defendant Company allow any commissions upon the purchase or erection of its plant and machinery as the purchases were all made by the officials and employees of the Company, and the work of construction must be carried on by salaried officers of the defendant Company. There is a direct conflict of testimony between these two gentlemen and it is almost impossible to say which is in the right. Unfortunately both Mr. Brothers and Mr. Weber are dead and the Court has not had the advantage of hearing their version of the transaction. The probabilities seem to me to be very nicely balanced. On the one hand the plaintiff's employment by the defendant Company seems to have been a continuation of his employment by the old Company and he would naturally be supposed to be employed on the same terms, and it appears from the plaintiff's evidence that he would not undertake all the work for a salary of $50; the use also of the word "retaining fee" in the letter from the old Company to Mr. Cahan seems significant. On the other hand it seems almost impossible that Mr. Cahan would not have seen the plaintiff after the receipt of the letter from the old Company especially when that letter in the face of it wants explanation as to remuneration and services to be performed by the plaintiff, that is to say what is the meaning of "retaining fee" and what is the duty performed by an expert superintendent as distinguished from a consulting engineer; and it seems incredible that Mr. Cahan should not have made some arrangement about the erection of the new machinery as the very object of the Company entailed the putting up of new machinery; again it seems peculiar that Mr. Brothers should have asked the plaintiff "if he could go on as consulting engineer" when Cahan had already received a letter asking him to retain the services of the plaintiff. Cahan wrote his Directors on the 2nd February, 1900, when reporting on the officials, "Mr. Seedorff who is the most competent electrical and mechanical engineer in the colony was employed as consulting engineer at $50 per month. We have retained his services in the meantime at the same rate." Mr. Brothers also wrote the Company that if the R. E. Company, who were sending out machinery, were sending an engineer "for assembling the engines at their own risk it will be all right but should they send him here and keep him at our expense I would much prefer that he is not sent here at all as our Mr. Seedorff—our consulting engineer who gets $50 per month—is quite capable of assembling these engines." If Mr. Brothers knew that the plaintiff besides his $50 a month was to get a commission on the cost of these engines surely he would have said so and shown, if such were the fact, that the commissions would be less than the cost of sending the engineer out. I can have no doubt that, at any rate, Mr. Cahan and Mr. Brothers had no idea that the Company would have to pay the plaintiff a commission for superintending the erection of the engines.

The plaintiff further states that when Mr. Gray, the Secretary, asked him to sign a printed agreement which the plaintiff says had nothing to do with salary, only as to getting rid of servants at 24 hours notice, he refused saying "I will go on under the old contract or not at all." Mr. Gray, however, states that what the plaintiff said was that he would not subject himself to 24 hours' notice, he was a professional man, if the Company did not want him they could do without him, he was not seeking employment.

Mr. Cahan states that he verbally employed the plaintiff and told him that his employment must be subject to the permanent manager's approval when a permanent manager was appointed. When Mr. Bruce (the permanent manager) arrived the plaintiff asked if Mr. Bruce wished him to continue as consulting engineer or retire, this seems to corroborate Mr. Cahan: why did the plaintiff ask Mr. Bruce if he was to continue unless he knew the continuance of his employment was subject to Mr. Bruce's approval?

On this evidence I cannot say that it is proved that there was any contract to pay commissions. Putting the case at its best for the plaintiff, the matter appears to me to be in this position, the plaintiff entered into the service of the defendant Company as consulting engineer at a salary of $50 a month under the impression that his duties were to superintend and look after the then existing machinery and that all superintendence as regards new plant would be paid for as extra; the Company, on the other hand, accepted the services of the plaintiff as consulting engineer at a salary of $50 a month under the impression that such services would include all consultative and superintending work both with regard to the old machinery and the new plant to be erected by them. It is contended on behalf of the plaintiff that as there was an agreement between the parties that the plaintiff should be the Company's consulting engineer at a salary of $50 per month and there was no agreement as to the superintending new work the Company must pay the plaintiff the value of the work done by him as they have accepted the benefit of such work. I do not consider the argument applies at all to this case. The Company contend that the agreement was not to superintend only the existing machinery but all the work of the Company, the acceptance of the benefit of such work would not therefore show an implied contract to pay for it as extra work. The Company cannot be said by still retaining the benefit of the work to contract to pay for it. They cannot return to the plaintiff anything, it is not a case such as of goods sold and delivered where the retention of the goods would show a contract to pay for them. Patterson v. Luckley, L. R. 10 Ex 330.

For the plaintiff to succeed in this first view of his case he must first prove his bargain with the Company, that it was to superintend the existing machinery only for the $50 a month, before he can claim on a quantum meruit. He must necessarily prove his agreement to show what was extra work, the question whether the work was extra can be decided only by reference to the agreement. Inglis v. Buttery, L. R. 3 Ap. Ca. 552, Edie v. Kingsford, 14 C. B. 759, Burton v. Cornish, 12 M. and W. 426. In face of the great conflict of the testimony in this case, I cannot say that the plaintiff has proved what his agreement was and he cannot therefore succeed in this action for payment as on a quantum meruit for extra work.

It is contended that Mr. Brothers knew that the plaintiff was doing the work as extra work and allowed him to continue such work and knowledge of Mr. Brothers would be knowledge of the Company as Mr. Brothers was the manager and subsequently the Attorney of the Company. I am not satisfied that Mr. Brothers had knowledge. The plaintiff alleges that in general conversations with Mr. Brothers he mentioned that he was to be paid for superintending the erection of new work as extra. These conversations are stated to have taken place a considerable time ago and are not corroborated in any way. Mr. Brothers to my mind by his letter to the Company practically shows that he was not aware that the plaintiff should be paid for this work as extra. The plaintiff no doubt was satisfied in his own mind that he would be so paid and may be under the impression of having said so to Mr. Brothers. The Courts are, however, very loth to act on general conversations alleged to have taken place a long time ago, when such conversations are uncorroborated. Mr. Brothers is dead and the Court cannot therefore learn what was his idea of the effect of those conversations but can only judge from his letters.

A notice in the Official Gazette dated 4th January, 1900, was put in evidence. The notice purports to be signed by Mr. Cahan as attorney of the Company but there was no evidence that it was so signed. It is to the effect that Mr. Brothers had been appointed as manager of the Company's tramway construction and all contracts or agreements for or in respect of material, &c., in connection with the construction or operation of the Company's tramways or electric work or lines made by Mr. Brothers would be accepted and fully performed by the Company. This notice could not refer to the employment of officials of the Company. The plaintiff does not say he relied on this notice, on the contrary he says it is only very recently he knew that Mr. Cahan was attorney of the Company and he could therefore not have known of this notice. This notice does not affect the question at issue one way or the other.

As I have already stated I am not satisfied there was any agreement between the plaintiff and Mr. Brothers to pay for superintending the erection of new machinery as extra work. Such an agreement was never pleaded or suggested in any way by the pleadings. In the particulars the plaintiff states he was requested by Mr. Brothers to do the work but there is nothing to show that Mr. Brothers agreed to pay him 5 per cent. on the cost. It seems strange that if there had been a specific agreement to pay five per cent. it should not have so stated in either the claim or the particulars.

The parties agree in saying that the plaintiff was employed as "consulting engineer." The evidence of what the duties of a consulting engineer are is very meagre. Mr. Baker testified that he was an engineer for seven estates at a fixed salary and that when new machinery is erected "we usually get something 'extra.'" "There are times I have not got commissions on new erections but have got consideration 'other ways.'" This witness' evidence was extremely unsatisfactory as he declined to answer questions by which the value of his testimony could be tested.

Mr. Culpapey says that he has had long conversation with seven estates—whether an engineer on an estate got remuneration for extra work would depend entirely on engagement with engineer, ordinary salary only covers usual supervision work, new machinery would be specially paid for according to the extent of the work, all specifications and plans would come under ordinary work. "After the work done we give the engineer a bonus for extra work." The evidence tends to show that the superintendence of new work does come within the duties of a consulting engineer at a monthly salary, but that generally "something extra" or a bonus is paid. Even if the plaintiff had proved only a contract of employment as "consulting engineer," I could not on this evidence say there was such a custom to pay five per cent. commission on superintending erection of new work proved that it must be taken that both parties contracted with relation to such custom.

When Mr. Bruce took over as permanent manager he, on 29th September, 1900, wrote the plaintiff that "As the equipment of the power station is now nearly completed, your services will not be required after October 31, 1900." This shows that in Mr. Bruce's opinion the principal portion of the plaintiff's duties was superintending the equipment of the power station and when that was completed his services were no longer required. It was in answer to this the plaintiff wrote on 1st October, 1900, claiming commission and this is the first time he claimed commission.

On the evidence I find that the plaintiff has not proved his case and there must therefore be judgment for the defendants. It is to be regretted that parties entering into agreements of this kind should not have them put into writing in which case no questions could arise between them. As I hold the plaintiff has not made out a case showing he is entitled to any commission it is unnecessary to consider what machinery, &c., the plaintiff can be said to have superintended the erection of.

As to costs, on behalf of the plaintiff it is contended that the cost of proving the value of the new work should be paid by the defendants in any event as they were called upon to admit such value and refused to do so. I think the defendants should when called upon have admitted the value of the new work and that they should pay the costs incurred by the plaintiff in having to make a motion for an order to examine their books, &c. All other costs must be paid by the plaintiff to the defendant company including the cost of obtaining Mr. Cahan's evidence.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

THIS 31ST DAY OF JULY, 1902.

BRUSH & Oks., Appellants,

versus
SHANNON, Respondent.

This is an appeal from the decision of the Stipendiary Magistrate of the Corentyne Judicial District convicting the appellants of unlawfully obstructing the lawful survey of certain land, to wit, of a piece of land at plantation Rose Hall.

The reason of appeal which was argued is that it was not proved that the survey which the complainant was making, was a lawful survey within the meaning of section 33 of Ordinance 20 of 1891.

The charge is brought under section 33 of Ordinance 20 of 1891 which enacts that every person who obstructs any lawful survey of land shall be liable to a penalty. Lawful survey must mean a survey that is lawful under the Ordinance. By section 15 of the Ordinance it is provided that when a land surveyor intends to survey or to resurvey land which is in dispute or to define boundaries he shall give at least fifteen days' notice in writing of such his intention to the owner, or the representative of the owner or the person in possession of the adjacent lands. There is no evidence that any such notice was given; in fact I believe no notice was given. It is contended for the respondent that no notice was necessary as the spot where the obstruction took place was Government land and the surveyor was a Government Surveyor, and it was not necessary for the Government Surveyor to give notice to his own department. It appears that Mr. Shannon had gone to re-paal off the northern boundary of a track of Crown land recently granted to the proprietors of Pln. Rose Hall, when the obstruction took place, and that there is a dispute between Port Mourant and Rose Hall about a trench which is affected by this paaling off. In the record it is shewn that Mr. Shannon stated that where the obstruction took place was a company dam, not private land. The land had been already granted to Rose Hall, there may or may not have been a question as regards the company path. Mr. Shannon before me stated he did not say before the Magistrate it was a company path but that it was Government land. This fact and also the fact that there was a dispute between the proprietors of the two estates, who are certainly owners of the adjacent lands, made it, I think, necessary that notice should have been given to them under sec. 15. As no such notice was proved to have been given I think the survey cannot be said to have been a legal survey under the Ordinance.

I must therefore reverse the decision of the Magistrate with costs.

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

IN INSOLVENCY.THIS 25TH DAY OF JULY, 1902.

In re ALFRED D'ANDRADE, Debtor.

Ex parte the Debtor.

Application for Leave to Appeal.

This is an ex parte application for leave to appeal against an order made by me under rule 172. of the Insolvency Rules of 1901, on the 4th July, 1902.

The application was filed with the Registrar on 22nd July, 1902.

By rule 99 of the Insolvency Rules "appeals to the Full Court shall be made in the manner and form as laid down in the Rules of the Supreme Court for the time being in force, in relation to appeals and any rules amending the same, and shall be carried on in accordance with the procedure laid down in such rules, or in the absence of such rules shall be decided summarily and as a motion.

By rule 6 of Order 43 of the Rules of Court of 1900, "Leave to appeal under these rules may be granted on the ex parte application of the party desiring to appeal to be made within four days in the case of an order, and seven days in the case of a final judgment. Such times to be computed from the date on which the order was made or the judgment was given."

The order appealed against was made on 4th July, and the application for leave to appeal was filed on 22nd, 1902, and acting Solicitor General Mr. Hutson appeared in support of the same on 24th July, 1902.

Clearly, rule 6 of Order 43 applying, he is no in time.

Moreover, presuming that the rules of Court do not apply in this case, the provisions of rules 17 and 18 of the Insolvency Rules of October 1901, have not been complied with.

It is to be observed that the application for leave to appeal discloses no reason for appeal beyond the dissatisfaction of the applicant at the order made by me against him. This cannot be considered a ground for granting leave to appeal.

Application refused.

REVIEW OF TAXATION.

Re ALFRED D'ANDRADE,
Ex parte JAMES ANDREW.

In this matter Alfred D'Andrade was ordered to pay to the mover, James Andrew, the sum of $168 02, and costs of his application.

This is an appeal from the Taxing Officer's allowance under Appendix I, Part I (c), which allows a fee of 10 o/o on the amount claimed, and to his disallowance of costs under Appendix I, Part I (b), which regulates the costs in actions over $250.

At the hearing of the appeal there was no appearance on behalf of the respondent. Having heard Mr. Cameron, solicitor, on behalf of the appellant, and having carefully considered the matter, I have come to the conclusion that the costs of this application should not be regulated by Appendix I, part I (c).

I therefore refer the bill back to the Taxing Officer to re-tax.

HIS Excellency the Governor directs the publication of the following gracious Message from His Majesty the King to his people, communicated on the occasion of Their Majesties' Coronation.

By Command,

A. M. ASHMORE,

Government Secretary.

"To my people on the eve of my Coronation, an event which I look upon as one of the most solemn and important in my life.

"I am anxious to express to my people at home and in the Colonies and in India my heartfelt appreciation of the deep sympathy which they have manifested to me during the time that my life was in such imminent danger. The postponement of the ceremony owing to my illness caused, I fear, much inconvenience and trouble to those who intended to celebrate it, but their disappointment was borne by them with admirable patience and temper. The prayers of my people for my recovery were heard, and I now offer up my deepest gratitude to Divine Providence for having preserved my life, and given me strength to fulfil the important duties which devolve upon me as the Sovereign of this Great Empire.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH
GUIANA.

THIS 2ND DAY OF JULY, 1902.

In Re PETITION OF BHUGOO AGAINST THE GRANTING OF LETTERS OF DECREE FOR NORTH HALF OF EAST HALF LOT 86, ALBOUY'S TOWN, TO RAMNATH.

In this case the petitioner asks that Letters of Decree be not granted to one Ramnath, for certain immovable property of the petitioner's of which Ramnath was declared the purchaser at an execution sale.

It is alleged in the petition that after the property was knocked down to Ramnath for $52.59 he paid the Marshal $10 on account of the purchase money, but did not pay the balance till many hours later on the same day, and that before such balance was paid the judgment creditor at whose instance the levy had been made, through his counsel, notified the Registrar of his wish to withdraw the levy and asked him not to receive the balance of the purchase money but the Registrar stated he was unable to cancel the sale.

On behalf of the petitioner it is urged that the sale was incomplete at the time when it was sought to withdraw the levy, and therefore the levy could be withdrawn, the purchase money not having been paid in cash at the time of sale as required by O. xxvi. R. 45, Part I. of the Rules of Court, 1900, and the Registrar or Marshal, having no authority to give time for the payment of any part thereof.

When immovable property is sold by the Marshal at auction, the effect is that a contract of sale is created, and not that the property sold is thereby transferred to the purchaser (See O. xxvi. R. 71). The purchaser by that contract acquires a right to have the property sold transferred to him, and becomes subject to the obligation to pay the price "at the time of sale." The contract of sale was therefore in this case complete, when the property was knocked down to Ramnath. I am aware of no authority for the proposition that neglect to discharge this obligation of payment at the time when it should be performed terminates per se the contract entered into; and the purchaser in this case having in good faith discharged the obligation of payment resting on him without the contract being previously terminated is, in my opinion, entitled to obtain Letters of Decree even though there was some delay in his making the payment. If the Registrar or Marshal was bound to terminate the contract and not to receive the balance of purchase money (a point which it is unnecessary to determine in these proceedings) and the judgment debtor who is the petitioner in this case was damaged thereby he has his remedy, but nothing is shown to have taken place which would, in my opinion, disentitle the purchaser to the benefit of the contract of sale into which he entered.

The petition is therefore dismissed with costs.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.APPELLATE JURISDICTION

THIS 15TH DAY OF AUGUST, 1902.

DEMERARA RAILWAY CO., LTD., Appellants,

versus

RICHARD DALY, Respondent.

Richard Daly sued the Demerara Railway Co., Ltd., in the Petty Debt Court of the East Coast Judicial District held at Belfield to recover "the sum of $36 00 as damages and pecuniary compensation for that the defendants were the owners of a certain Railway which crossed certain lands and dams at Victoria Village in the East Coast Judicial District, in the County of Demerara and Colony of British Guiana, on which said lands and dams animals were used and accustomed and had the right to graze and walk on and it was the duty of the defendants by reason of the premises to make and maintain good and sufficient fences and gates so as to prevent animals lawfully being on the said lands and dams from straying into and upon the said Railway, yet the defendants did not make or maintain good and sufficient fences and gates whereby, on the 24th day of April, 1902, a milch cow, the property of the plaintiff, lawfully on the said lands and dams situate as aforesaid strayed thereupon, into and upon the said Railway and was upon the said Railway by a locomotive engine and train of carriages and driven by their servants run down, killed and lost to the plaintiff.

The Magistrate, Mr. W. C. Harragin, after hearing the evidence of the plaintiff and his witnesses—no witnesses for the defendant Company being called—on the 18th June gave judgment in favour of the plaintiff, with costs.

The Magistrate's reasons for judgment are as follows:—"Because I believe the evidence given and I do not consider the cow was a stray when she was walking on the middle walk of Victoria." It is to be regretted that the Magistrate has not given his reasons for concluding the animal was not a stray when walking on the middle walk. The mere statement by a person that he has arrived at a definite conclusion in no way explains the grounds upon which that conclusion is based.

Against this decision the defendant Company appealed for the following reasons:—

- (1) That the decision is erroneous in point of law.
- (a) The animal being a stray it was not incumbent on appellants to fence off as against the said animal.
- (b) That the appellants were not bound to fence off as against plaintiff.
- (c) That the appellants were not bound on the plaintiff's claim as laid before the Magistrate, to fence at all.
- (d) That the plaintiff was not one of the persons against whom appellants were bound to fence.
- (e) That the plaintiff's cow was a stray on the day of killing and long previously thereto, and the verdict should have been in favour of appellants.
- (f) That there being no proof that plaintiff's cow was lawfully on the lands the verdict should have been for defendants.
- (g) That there being no proof (even admitting that plaintiff had proved a right to agist at Victoria) that the plaintiff's cow was depastured at Victoria or was even in the said pasture the verdict should have been for appellants.
- (h) That the middle walk dam and pasture being undivided lands of a village it was the duty of the plaintiff to see that his animal did not trespass thereon.
- (i) That the animal in point of law was a stray at Cove & John pasture and on the public road.

Under the Companies Clauses and Powers Consolidation Ordinance of 1846 (Ord. 1 of 1846) and the Demerara Railway's Companies Ordinance, 1846 (Ord. 2 of 1846), certain duties were imposed on the Demerara Railway Company first as regards the public generally and secondly with regard to the owners and occupiers of lands adjoining the Railway. It is not clear from the plaint, nor from the evidence adduced by the plaintiff in the Court below what was the particular breach of duty by the Railway Company which rendered them liable for damages in this case, and neither the judgment of the Magistrate nor his reasons throw any light on the subject. I gather, however, from the argument of counsel—Mr. A. B. Brown—who appeared for the respondent in appeal that it was for a breach of the provisions of section 68 (sub. sec. 1) of Ordinance No. 2 of 1846 that damages were claimed in the Petty Debt Court.

Sub-sec 1 of section 68 of Ord. 2 of 1846 is as follows: "After any part of the Railway has been formed, and during the construction thereof, the Company shall make the following works at the times hereinafter mentioned, that is to say,—Such and so many convenient gates upon or adjoining the Railway as may be necessary for the purpose of making good any interruptions caused by the Railway to the use of the lands through which the Railway may be made and protecting such lands from trespass or the cattle or the cattle of the owners or occupiers thereof from straying thereout by reason of the Railway; and also such and so many bridges, arches, hollows, culverts, fences, trenches, ditches, drains, and passages over, under or by the sides of, or leading to or from, the Railway as may be necessary for the above purposes; and such works shall be made forthwith after the part of the railway, passing over such lands has been laid out or formed."

(Sub-sec. 2.) "Sufficient posts, rails, hedges, trenches, ditches, mounds, or other fences for separating the lands taken for the use of the railway from the adjoining lands not taken, with all necessary gates made to open towards such adjoining lands and not toward the railway, and all necessary stiles; and such works shall be made forthwith after the taking of any such lands, if the owners thereof so require."

The plaintiff alleges that the railway crossed certain lands and dams at Victoria, on which said lands and dams animals were used and accustomed and had the right to graze and walk on. Plaintiff alleges that his cows being lawfully on the "said lands and dams" strayed therefrom to the railway where it was killed by a locomotive engine. From the evidence it would appear that plaintiff has a house at Victoria Village. He is not the owner of any land adjoining the railway, and there is no pasture adjoining the railway in which he has the right to graze his cattle. The pasture at Victoria does not adjoin the railway, and the Railway Company were not bound therefore to fence against cattle in that pasture straying on to the railway.

There is a public road between the Victoria pasture and the railway line, and there are also persons owning land between the public road and the railway. Plaintiff admits that his lot, presumably that on which he has his house, is forty rods to the south of the railway, and that he is separated from the railway by other proprietors. It is clear therefore he is not owner of adjoining land so as to render it obligatory on the Company to fence, &c., for his benefit. Nor is it shown that he is the occupier of any pasture which should be fenced off by the railway, for presuming he had the right to graze cattle in the Victoria pasture, it was impossible for his cattle to go direct from that pasture on to the railway, it not being adjacent thereto and there was no duty on the railway to fence as against cattle in such pasture. Is there any evidence however that plaintiff ever did graze cattle in Victoria pasture? There is absolutely none. There was a vague statement by Mr. Collins, chairman of the Village Council, that villagers have the right to graze cattle in the pasture, but there was nothing to prove such right really existed. On the contrary, the Village Ordinance (6 of 1892), shows clearly the pasture is vested in the Council, and the right to pasture subject to their control and granted only with their permission and by payment of the proper fees, if a table of fees has been drawn. The right to free pasture must be established by stronger evidence than the irresponsible statement of a Village Councillor, whether he be chairman or not. The minutes of the Council's proceedings should contain some reference thereto.

So far from grazing in Victoria village it appears to me from the evidence that the cow—the death of which was the subject of this action—used to be let out in the morning to find its way to Cove & John pasture—wherever that may be. In the evening it would make its return, i.e. to plaintiff's house—by the public road, then to the middle walk of Victoria, then through the land of a Mr. Soares, and from there again on to the middle walk; then across the Railway, and on to plaintiff's place. There is no evidence the cow was driven by or in charge of any person while going to and from Cove & John pasture. It was allowed to go and come and wander as it pleased. It is clear that there are no fences or gates at the middle walk of Victoria, nor indeed on any part of the line where it runs through the village.

The middle walk of Victoria Village is, according to Mr. Collins, controlled by the Village Council, and is the main road of the village and there can be no doubt from the decisions in Demerara Railway Company v. Cavan & Company, 5th December, 1894, and Marcus v. Demerara Railway Company, that the Railway Company are bound to erect gates across that road to prevent the cattle of persons having a right of way there from straying on to the line. It is a statutory duty imposed upon them and which they cannot rid themselves of except in the way indicated in the Ordinance itself. The plaintiff in the Court below is a resident of Victoria Village and as such would have not only the right to use the middle walk, the main road of the village, himself but according to Mr. Collins a right to his cows walking along it also. It seems to me, however, very doubtful whether this right extends to cows walking along the road unattended, that is, without any person being in charge of them.

The position then appears to be this:—The Railway Company have clearly neglected the statutory duty cast upon them of erecting gates across the middle walk. The plaintiff (in the Court below), a resident of Victoria, with a right of way for himself and cattle along the middle walk, turns out his cows in the morning unattended, and leaves them to wander where they will until the evening when they return home. It is shown by the evidence that the animals proceed to Cove & John pasture, and that in returning they cross a public bridge proceed a certain distance along the public road and then get on to the middle walk.

Proceeding along the middle walk they pass through the land of a Mr. Soares, then back to the middle walk, across the railway and back to plaintiff's place. It is at the moment of crossing the railway where it intersects the middle walk that one of plaintiff's cows is killed.

I have felt considerable doubt as to whether the appellant company could, under the circumstances, escape liability for damage caused by their neglect to carry out the provisions of the law. It is clear that had there been proper gates across the middle walk plaintiff's cow could not have got on to the line without the gates being opened for it to pass through.

On the other hand it appears to me that neither the Village Ordinance nor the Regulations relating to Villages contemplate or sanction the idea that cattle are to be permitted to wander at their own sweet will either along the village roads and streets or any lands vested in a Village Council.

Regulation 34 as to the "Impounding of Strays" says:—"The Council shall have power to authorize in writing the overseer, or any other person, to impound any strays and to destroy any swine found trespassing on the village streets, dams, roads, trenches, premises or lands." The plaintiff may have had a right to drive or conduct his cows along the middle walk just as the public have the right to drive or conduct their horses or cattle along a public road. But animals left unattended on a public road are strays, and I take it that animals unattended on a village road, such as the middle walk of Victoria, are likewise strays and may be impounded by a person duly authorized to do so. The fact that this right of impounding may not be exercised would not render them the less strays, and the Railway Company could not be made liable because a person with a right to impound did not impound.

The respondent can hardly be said to be an occupier of the middle walk merely by the fact that he allowed his cows to wander thereon unattended by any person; and looking at the provisions of Section 75 of Ordinance 2 of 1846, I am of opinion that the Railway Company cannot be held liable in this case. Section 75 is as follows:—

"Until the company has made the bridges or other proper accommodations to be made by it between lands intersected by the Railway, and no longer, the owners and occupiers of such lands, and any other person whose right of way may be affected by the want of such communications, and their respective servants, may at all times freely pass and repass, and lead and conduct any horse or other animal directly (but not otherwise) across the part of the Railway made in or through their respective lands, solely for the purpose of occupying the same lands, or for the exercise of such right of way and so as not to obstruct the passage along the Railway or to damage the same, &c."

Respondent is a person whose right of way would be affected under this section and it is in this sense only from the evidence the Railway can be said to be responsible to him for damages. In no other way, according to the record, has he any claim as the owner or occupier of lands adjoining the Railway.

Looking at this section it seems to me that in case of roads like this middle walk, the law never contemplated making the railway responsible for animals straying unattended on to the Railway. It is different with regard to level crossings on public (or turn-pike) roads where it would seem, according to the judgment in Fawcett v. the York and North Midland Railway (Law Journal Rep. Vol. 20, N.S. Com. Law 1851) the Railway would be responsible even in the case of strays getting on to the line through the gates being left open there being a statutory duty thrown on them to keep such gates closed across the line when trains are not passing and to shut them across the public road when they do pass.

It is not without grave consideration I have come to the conclusion that the judgment of the Magistrate in this case must be reversed. Plaintiff may have had a right of way along the middle walk but he has exercised that right in such a careless manner, and with such an absence of prudence and proper precautions that he has only himself to blame for what has occurred. He knew there were no gates at the Railway; as a proprietor he and his fellow proprietors appear to have done nothing to compel the appellants to perform the duties imposed upon them by the law, and yet he allows his animals to wander about, heedless of what may befall them, thinking evidently, that if damaged by the appellants' engines or trains he will recover their full value. It is possible as was seen in the case of the Demerara Railway Coy. v. Cavan & Co. that the proprietors of Victoria objected to gates being put across the middle walk because of the expense of employing a person to open and shut them; but, however that may be, the Company would not be relieved of the statutory obligation imposed upon them, nor would that circumstance by itself absolve them from liability for damage resulting from their neglect.

There is one matter referred to in the evidence, which was not dealt with by the reasons of appeal nor included in the argument of the learned counsel for respondent. I refer to the statement made by Mr. Collins that he "saw people coming from the railway station with beef." If this means that the Railway Company disposed of the carcass of the slaughtered animal it appears to me that proof of their having done so might possibly have led to my decision being different; but in any case I take it they might be held liable to the respondent for loss sustained by him by reason of appellants' action in selling the flesh of the cow presuming they did so. Killing a cow on the railway gives—so far as I am aware—no right to the Railway Company to sell the flesh of the animal thus slaughtered. This point, however, was neither raised nor argued and I simply refer to it here to show that a question of a similar nature may arise in the future which might render a different decision necessary.

The judgment of the Magistrate is reversed with costs.

J. B. BOYCE, Appellant.

J. T. JACKSON, Respondent.

This is an appeal from a decision of the acting Police Magistrate, setting aside a levy made under a writ of execution for the sum of $39 53 and costs 96 cents issued out of the Petty Debt Court of Georgetown, at the instance of J. T. Jackson against A. J. Crawford. The warrant was executed on 2nd June, 1902, and the goods seized under it were claimed by the Respondent, J. T. Jackson, and the Magistrate decided in his favour. The Magistrate's reasons for judgment are as follows:—

"Shortly the reasons which led me to withdraw the levy in the above case, are:—

- 1st. That I consider the levy was proved.
- 2nd. That the goods levied on were proved to be the bona fide property of the claimant, J. T. Jackson.
- 3rd. That there was sale and delivery by Crawford to Jackson.
- 4th. That there was not a vestige of fraud against the claimant Jackson.

In other words, the claimant's story holds water. It is well substantiated by documentary evidence. It is a perfectly possible narrative. The witnesses called for the claimant testify to a fairly probable, certainly possible story. Their evidence was not seriously shaken by cross-examination, nor was it rebutted to any appreciable extent. I am compelled to believe them."

The Magistrate is not quite correct when he says he withdraw the levy. That could only have been done by the party at whose instance such levy was made. It is clear that what the Magistrate did was to set aside the levy so far as the goods claimed by Jackson were concerned.

The reasons for appeal are:—

1. The Magistrate's decision was erroneous in point of law.

(a) Because the evidence showed no sale and delivery of the goods to the claimant.

(b) All the evidence pointed to fraud and collusion between the claimant and Crawford to defraud the creditors of Crawford by a fictitious sale of the goods.

2. The decision is altogether unwarranted by the evidence in like manner as, if the case had been tried by a jury there would not have been sufficient evidence to sustain the verdict."

As to reason 1. (a) I am of opinion there was sufficient evidence before the Magistrate by which he might reasonably infer there was sale and delivery of the goods to the respondent.

(b) I can discover no sufficient evidence to justify the conclusion that the sale of the goods by Crawford to Jackson was fictitious, or that there was fraud and collusion between Jackson and Crawford to defraud the creditors of the latter. Indeed there is nothing to show that Crawford was indebted at the time of the sale to any one but appellant, and there is no proof that Crawford obtained goods on credit from appellant after he sold his furniture and business to Jackson. It is stated by Jackson, that he advertised the fact that he had taken over the business belonging to Crawford, and he produces receipts for rents, and licences, which go far to show that the transaction between himself and Crawford were genuine and above board. The case of Fivaz v. Boswell, (Searle's Reports 1 p. 235) quoted by the learned Counsel for the appellant does not apply, as it appears to me the goods sold were not left in the possession of the vendor, but were taken over with the business by the vendee, and removed by him on the different occasions when he changed his place of business. The fact that

Crawford continued to reside at the boarding house, and that his wife also remained as Jackson's manager at a wage of $10 00, may give rise to suspicion but would not justify the inference, that the sale was fictitious, or that it was made for a fraudulent purpose. The only other circumstances which call for comment are, the fact that Crawford is Jackson's cousin, and that Crawford offered the bailiff when distraining $10 at the end of the month, if he would stop the levy. I am not aware that relationship between vendor and vendee is a bar to a genuine sale being made by one to the other, and the offer to the bailiff of money to stay the levy by Crawford, if true, may have been for other reasons than those attributed to him. For instance, the taking away of the furniture of the boarding house where he was residing, would possibly have personally inconvenienced him, and might also have led to his wife losing the wages which Jackson was paying her. All things considered, I am of opinion the judgment of the Magistrate was correct and must be affirmed so far as the goods claimed are concerned. As to the claim for damages, the Magistrate has given no decision whatever; whether by oversight or otherwise is not apparent. As however no question as to damages has been raised either by appellant or respondent, I do not think it necessary to refer to that matter further.

Appeal dismissed with costs.

THIS 16TH DAY OF AUGUST, 1902.

JENKINS

versus

FERNANDES.

This is an appeal from a decision of the acting Stipendiary Magistrate for the South Essequibo Judicial District convicting the appellant of unlawfully neglecting to comply with a lawful order given by a Government Officer.

It appears there was a dispute between Herbert and Pistano as to a location of a claim called Billbird hill. The matter was heard by the Warden who gave a decision in favour of Herbert. Notice of appeal was thereupon given. Herbert applied that no work should be allowed on the claim pending the appeal and an order was made on both parties not to work on claim. One Austin appeared on behalf of Pistano being thereto authorized by a letter from Pistano. The appellant who, it is stated by counsel, is the lessee of Pistano of the claim was present at the hearing, and was given an order personally by the Warden not to work on Billbird hill. It is for neglecting to comply with this order that the appellant was convicted.

The reason of appeal is that the decision of the magistrate is erroneous in point of law inasmuch as (a) the complainant did not prove he had made an order to cease work after he had given notice of the application to the person to be affected by such application or to his agents in Georgetown in time to enable the person to be affected to be represented when such application was made and (b) that unless such notice was served the complainant had no power to make the order at the time he did and no conviction should have taken place.

By regulation 150 of the Amended Mining Regulations 1899 the Commissioner or Warden may, when it appears to him absolutely necessary to do so for the maintenance of the public peace or for the protection of the interests of the Crown, or of private persons, order that all work shall cease on a claim, either generally or by any particular person or persons and thereupon work shall be discontinued accordingly. Regulation 151 provides for the giving of the notice as set out in the reason of appeal. It appears to me the appellant had notice of the application, he was actually present when the application was made and the order was given to him personally. It is contended that the appellant was not a party to the proceedings and therefore could not have made any objection to the order. He may not have been able to object to the order made on Pistano but when the order was asked for against him, as it appears to have been, he could have objected if he wished. The regulation provides for an order being made on a particular person and the order was made against the appellant. If on some technical ground that order might possibly be set aside the appellant should have taken steps to have it set aside, unless he did so he must obey the order. In a district like the gold fields it would be subversive of all law and order if a person on whom an order is made is permitted to treat such order with contempt if he was of opinion there was technical defect therein. From the record it appears that the appellant was heard on the application, he took part in the matter of the application, he said to the Warden he was not going to work. It is clear the application was made for an order against the appellant and an order was made against him and also against the parties to the proceedings. Regulation 151 expressly states that notice is to be given to enable the party affected by the order to be represented when the application is made. The appellant was present when application was made, if he had wished he could have asked for a postponement or taken any other step he thought right but he acquiesced in the order and said he was not going to work. There is nothing to show what motive the Warden had in making the order. It was made on the application of Herbert but the Warden does not state what influenced him in making the order whether he thought there would be a breach of the peace if he did not, or whether it was solely to protect Herbert's interests. It is stated by counsel for the appellant that if the order was made for the purpose of maintaining the public peace or for the protection of the interests of the Crown no notice was necessary. Be this as it may, I think under the circumstances of the case the appellant had notice and that the decision of the magistrate must be upheld.

I dismiss this appeal. There was no appearance for the respondent so there are no costs.

A. V. LUCIE SMITH, Actg. C.J.

INSOLVENCY JURISDICTION.

THIS 16TH DAY OF AUGUST, 1902.

In re DE SOUZA.

Ex parte ASSIGNEE v CAMBRA.

This is an application under section 44 of the Insolvency Ordinance for an order declaring that the sum of $500 paid by the insolvent de Souza to Cambra be deemed fraudulent and void against the Assignee and that the said M. V. Cambra be ordered to pay the Assignee the said sum of $500 with interest and costs.

A Receiving Order was made on the 21st April, 1902, against de Souza on his own petition, and he was adjudged insolvent on the 26th April, 1902. I find that the payment to Cambra, was made on the 13th March, 1902. The insolvent has not given evidence himself as it appears to me he is purposely keeping out of the way. A warrant has been issued for his apprehension but he cannot be found. His clerk Camara has given evidence; he swears to the correctness of the books generally, he says he was told to make the entry of the payment to Cambra by de Souza and that he did not himself see the payment. There is, I think, evidence that Cambra was paid the $500, from the books it appears that the insolvent had not the money to pay this sum until he received the insurance money on the 12th March, 1902. Camara also says when de Souza, borrowed the money from Cambra, he said as soon as he got the insurance money he would pay him, and Counsel for Cambra has admitted this to be so and based his whole argument on the question of preference on the fact that his client was paid out of the insurance money by virtue of his agreement. Cambra was not put in the box on his own behalf, and there is no contradiction of the evidence given. It appears he was summoned as a witness by the Assignee, but on being called he did not appear, it is stated because his expenses were not paid. If he was not paid on the 13th March, he would certainly have gone into the box and said so.

I find also in the evidence that on the day of the payment the insolvent was unable to pay his debts as they became due from his own money. He allowed his acceptances to Plimsaul and certain promissory notes to be dishonoured, and from the evidence of his clerk it is clear that he did so because he could not pay them and for no other reason. The insolvent cannot be examined as he cannot be found, but I consider his clerk Camara's evidence is quite sufficient on this point.

It is contended on Cambra's behalf that when he lent de Souza the $350 in August, de Souza promised to repay him out of the insurance money when received and that therefore the dominant motive in de Souza's mind in making the payment was to carry out his agreement, not to prefer. Camara states in his evidence that de Souza got the loan from Cambra "promising to return it as soon as he got the insurance money." As I have already remarked, Cambra has not been in the box to show under what circumstances he was repaid. I do not think on the evidence that there could be said to be any binding legal obligation to pay out of a particular fund; the insolvent may have said he would pay out of the insurance money and it may be that in honour he was bound to pay it when he received the insurance money. The insurance money when received, however, belonged to the insolvent's creditors. If a debtor makes a payment under the belief that he is under a legal obligation to make it that will prevent the payment being a fraudulent preference, but doing so under a sense of honour or moral obligation alone will not, any more than a mere motive of kindness. In re Vignoe and Davis, ex parte Viney v Manson 416; In re Fletcher, ex parte Suffolk 9 Morrell 8. A payment is not voluntary if made under a special antecedent contract, Bills v Smith, L. J. 34 Q. B. 68. I cannot on the evidence say there was a special antecedent contract to pay out of the insurance money. If there had been such a contract in any way binding, Cambra would have gone into the box and proved it. In re Laurier ex parte Green, 5 Manson, 48, Wright J. followed ex parte Lancaster re Marsden, (1883), 25 C. D. 311, in which case Cotton L. J. said "In order to show that the judgment was suffered with a view of giving the father-in-law a preference it is not sufficient to show only that the debtor did not enter an appearance and that he in that sense suffered the judgment, but it must be shown that he abstained from entering an appearance with the view of giving his father-in-law a preference. . . . This being a matter which it is for the appellant (the trustee), to make out—not, of course, conclusively, but so as to satisfy us—in my opinion he has failed to discharge the onus." It is to be observed that in that case the debtor abstained from entering an appearance which is very different from a positive act of making a payment. Vaughan Williams J. in re Eaton & Co. ex parte Viney (1897) said that on the trustee having shown insolvency on the part of the bankrupt at the time of payment the onus shifted. This dictum Wright J. declined to act on. In Butcher v Stead L. R. 7 H. L. 839 and Sharp v Jackson, 6 Manson, 264 it is laid down by the House of Lords that in cases of fraudulent preference in place of raising an inquiry whether it was done in contemplation of bankruptcy the Act provided certain definite tests, namely that the bankrupt should have been at the time unable to pay his debts as they became due from his own moneys and that he became bankrupt within three months from the date of payment, and left the question of pressure as it stood before. The local ordinance excludes the question of pressure by the creditor. Applying the tests as laid down it is clear that this payment comes within the section. Taking into consideration all the circumstances of this case and the manner in which the insolvent dealt with the insurance money when he received it, I consider that a prima facie case has been made out which Cambra has not thought fit in any way to rebut.

I allow the motion for the repayment of the money with interest from the date of the order and costs.
